VIOLENCE RENEWED AS TOLEDO RIOTERS REJECT PEACE PLAN

Gunfire by National Guardsmen Breaks Up Repeated Attacks as Strike Sympathizers Hurl Bricks at Soldiers—Crowd Swells Rapidly as New Disorders Flare Up

TOLEDO, O., May 26 (AP).—Violence broke out anew at the Electric Auto-Lite Company plant here, early today, an hour after a peace proposal had been rejected by strikers. A Guardsman was shot by a sniper, and another man was struck by a gas projectile.

National Guard Lieutenant Vern Salibaugh was shot in the thigh by a member of the crowd that began to grow larger at the edge of the strike zone. Payton Cass, thirty-six, was taken to a hospital with his lower jaw almost torn away.

BYSTANDER INJURED

Lieutenant Salibaugh, who had been directing an outpost of the national guard, said his wound was not serious. Cass was hit while standing on the porch of his home near the strike zone, police were told. Peter Bruner was taken to a hospital for treatment for a flesh wound caused by a bayonet jab.

Some 2,000 sympathizers continued to stone the troops on guard in the strike area at intervals last night in the district where in four days two men have been killed by gunfire and more than 150 others injured by flying missiles.

National guardsmen whipped out revolvers late yesterday and fired on a crowd of 2,000 whom tear gas had failed to disperse.

CROWD SCATTERED

The crowd scattered quickly at the first shots. Firing as they ran, the soldiers pursued the strikers and their friends down alleys and between houses.

Almost simultaneously two truckloads of soldiers whizzed to the downtown district to break up a shouting throng of 500 around the police station.

"We're going back to get help and we'll come back here and strip you," screamed the rioters as they retreated.

GUARD IN BANK ROUTS BANDITS

Kills One and Wounds Another—Avenged for Death of His Son

CHICAGO, May 25 (AP).—A bank guard who had waited months to avenge his son's death, today repulsed a band of six armed bandits, killing one of them outright, mortally wounding another and disabling a third.

Storming the South Holland Trust and Savings Bank in the quiet little suburban town, the six bandits found themselves trapped. Before they could fire a shot, one of their numbers was dead, another dying and a third hit and staggering. The others dragged the third man into their car and fled.

The guard was Jacob P. De Young, fifty-three years old. Four months ago his son, Peter, was killed in the same bank by, police said, the same hold-up gang. De Young routed the robbers with five shots from a high-powered rifle.

RAN INTO FIRE

Those who could flee ran into the fire of three or four vigilantes, recruited in five minutes' notice to trap the gunmen. Police learned of the plan to rob the bank just before it was attempted.

Four escaped, leaving one dead and one dying. Three hours later a speeding car slowed before the Jefferson Park Hospital on the south side of Chicago and dumped out a wounded man, who, police said, was Isadore Pincus, one of the South Holland gang. Hospital attendants said he was near death from loss of blood.

The slain man was identified as John Cozzi, twenty-one, of Chicago. The fatally-wounded man, police said was Ben Toccio, nineteen, also of Chicago. He died from loss of blood late today. Those who escaped got no loot.

Kidnapped by Mistake and Put to Death

MEXIA, Texas, May 25 (AP).—The body of John L. Adams, who police believe was kidnapped by mistake, was found today in a tank about a mile south of Groesbeck, his home. A bullet hole was in the temple. A theory that Adams was killed by kidnappers when they learned they abducted him instead of a wealthy neighbor, was advanced by authorities.

ADVERTISING LIMITED

WINNIPEG, May 25 (CP).—R. D. Waugh, liquor commissioner, announced today the prohibition against advertising spirituous liquors in Manitoba, had been rescinded. Advertisements, however, would be limited to 100 lines each,

DEATH TAKES ARCHBISHOP

Most Rev. Neil McNeil Headed Church in Toronto Many Years

TORONTO, May 25 (CP).—Most Rev. Neil McNeil, eighty-two, Archbishop of Toronto Archdiocese of the Roman Catholic Church, died at midnight in St. Michael's Hospital. He was head of the Roman Catholic Church in Toronto for twenty-two years.

The aged prelate entered the hospital on May 10 with an internal ailment with shingles. There followed complications of the bladder and kidney troubles. Doctors decided an operation was necessary, and it was performed on May 15. The operation was successful and the archbishop appeared on the road to recovery.

Pneumonia appeared, however, on May 17, and Archbishop McNeil became gradually weaker. Before the operation he had received the last sacraments.

Mother St. Martin, Provincial Superior of the Maritime Provinces of congregation of Notre Dame, is a sister of the late archbishop.

DISTINGUISHED CAREER

The priestly life of His Grace the Most Rev. Neil McNeil, D.D., Roman Catholic Archbishop of Toronto, extending over more than fifty years, was one of a distinguished career rarè for those called to the sacradotal life. In fact, from his student days he showed those extraordinary characteristics that were to qualify him for the heavy and important mantle which was to eventually fall upon him.

His Grace was the son of the late Malcolm McNeil, of Hillsborough, Inverness, Nova Scotia, his grand-

Vancouver Child Killed Instantly

VANCOUVER, May 25 (CP). — Five-year-old Patricia Healey, of Forty-Second Avenue East, was instantly killed today when she ran across the street at the corner of Forty-First and Victoria Drive, into the path of an automobile which, police said, was driven by James Adams, twenty-five, East Sixty-First. Adams was charged with manslaughter, and released on $5,000 bond.

Automobile Crashes Into Shop Window

AN unusual accident occurred on View Street, between Broad and Douglas Streets, shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. An automobile, driven by Miss M. Gildea, of Shawnigan Lake, mounted the curb and plunged through the plate glass show window of David Spencer, Ltd., shattering both plates. Miss Gildea, police reported, was in the act of parking, and accidentally stepped on the accelerator. The above picture was taken a few minutes after the crash. No one was injured.

Irishmen of Free State Want No Business With Britain, States De Valera

Majority in Favor of Republic With Absolute Freedom, He Maintains—Bill to Abolish Senate Passes in Dail by 54 to 38—Will Be Law Within Year

DUBLIN, May 25 (CP).—With a declaration of Ireland's "right to absolute freedom," President Eamonn de Valera today stated his opinion that the majority of the Irish people wanted a republic. The Irish Free State had not declared a republic because "repetition of the Civil War of 1921 is not wanted," the President said.

"If threats of hostile action against the Irish people are withdrawn," Mr. De Valera said, "they will see how long Ireland will be without a republic."

President De Valera's remarks were made during discussion, in the Dail Eireann, on his bill to abolish the Free State Senate. The bill passed, fifty-four to thirty-eight. It is expected that the Senate will reject the Abolition Bill, but in any case, provision is made for its proclamation as law in about a year.

FREQUENT INTERRUPTIONS

The President was frequently interrupted. When it was suggested that the Irish Free State follow the example of the Dominion of South Africa in declaring her status, he replied:

"If South Africa is satisfied, it is their affair. We were a nation before South Africa was thought of. We are as old as the British. If you want a comparison, take a comparison with Britain. If Britain had been conquered and become subject to Germany, would the British people be satisfied?"

Speaking for the Opposition, Frank McDermot declared 1,000,000 Free Staters had racial or other ties with Britain. The President retorted that 3,500,000 were dissatisfied.

"We want England to get out," said De Valera, after the bill had been passed. "We do not want to

Floods Blot Out Thousand Homes On River's Bank

TEHERAN, Persia, May 25 (CP-Havas).—Floods today destroyed more than 1,000 homes in the city of Kum, on the banks of the Kum River, it was learned tonight. The waters were reported still rising and it was feared that the entire city might be flooded. No deaths were reported.

RELIEF AGREEMENTS GIVEN EXTENSION

OTTAWA, May 25 (CP).—Copies of orders-in-council, granting a two months' extension of the agreements signed with Provincial Governments for direct relief, last year, were tabled in the House of Commons today, by Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor.

In each of the nine provinces, the agreement expired last March 31. The orders-in-council will permit the different agreements to stand until May 31.

LIONS SPREAD TERROR

LISBON, May 25 (AP).—Man-eating lions are making raids on villages and spreading terror in the interior of Portuguese East Africa, it was reported to the Government here today. One white woman and several natives are known to have been killed by the beasts, communications stated.

LONGSHOREMEN CONTINUE IDLE

United States Pacific Ports Tightly Closed as Negotiators Talk

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25 (AP).—A mediation board attempting to settle the Pacific Coast maritime workers' strike, centring about the walkout of 12,000 longshoremen, adjourned at 6:30 p.m., today, and will resume negotiations at 9 a.m., tomorrow.

Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, who meets with the mediation board, expressed optimism. "Both sides are meeting on the most friendly terms," he said.

LOSS IS ESTIMATED

Loss incurred by the Port of San Francisco since the strike started, May 9, was estimated at nearly $2,000,000 by Chamber of Commerce officials.

Rumors were heard that civic leaders here were raising a fund of $1,000,000 to "open the port to commerce," but Chamber of Commerce officials refused to comment on the reports.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, May 25 (AP).—Another victory in the Canada sector of the Gran Chaco was reported late today, by the Bolivian War Office. It said a strong enemy position had been seized after a three-day battle with the capture of eleven officers and 190 soldiers.

An army report made public by President Salamanca said Bolivian forces had taken more than 1,000 prisoners.

PORT ALBERNI, B.C., May 25 (CP).—A cougar has been shot near here after a Japanese woman at Ucluelet reported she had found the animal stalking her children within twenty feet of the house. The mother said she managed to get the children safely within the house.

When the cougar was killed and skinned, a piece of a mackinaw coat with four buttons sewed to it was found inside

ATTACK DRAWS WILD APPLAUSE

Governor of Malta Scathingly Denounces Island's Pro-Italian Elements

VALETTA, Malta, May 25 (CP via Reuter's).—Wild applause greeted a scathing attack on certain pro-Italian elements in Malta, made before the dinner of the Royal Empire Society, last evening, by Governor Sir David Campbell.

Addressing a gathering which included the lieutenant-governor and civil and military heads, the governor criticized the "few but eloquent" sections of the population who had access to certain sections of the press.

"These people render lip-service to the Empire, but belittle everything British and praise everything in connection with a neighboring friendly state. They strive for the Italianization of our island," declared the governor.

DISAPPROVES ATTEMPTS

"I feel sure this would be most repugnant to such a man as Premier Mussolini and his Government, who, I have reason to believe, regard attempts to stir up strife in Malta and sap the loyalty of the population with the same disapproval as we do.

"We naturally consider that a British colony, especially a British fortress of the first importance, should be all British in political outlook."

France Wants Peace And Will Not Reduce Arms, Says Barthou

Foreign Minister Will Not Agree to Rearmament of Germany—Outlines Views on Austrian and Polish Situations

PARIS, May 25 (CP-Havas).—Aroused by war talk in the Chamber of Deputies, Foreign Minister Louis Barthou today vigorously outlined a policy of seeking peace, which involved refusal to disarm France or to agree to any rearmament of Germany.

"We don't want war," asserted the veteran minister, who promised to take a strong stand on the matter of clashes on the German border. "We will do everything to avoid it—we will avoid it!"

WILL ACT WITH ENERGY

With regard to the border situation, intensified recently by the arrest in Germany of a French railroad man, accused of insulting the Nazi regime, Barthou promised: "The Government will act with all the energy you wish."

Stressing the importance of the safeguarding of the independence of Austria, M. Barthou declared that while the Government never interfered in the domestic affairs of another nation, he had indicated to Chancellor Dollfuss, of Austria, the advisability to ease the repressive measures against the Socialists imprisoned following the bloody Vienna riots.

POLAND AND RUSSIA

He also discussed his recent visit to Warsaw, saying he was working to bring Poland and Russia together. Russia's proposed entry into the League of Nations would be

MORATORIUM ON FOREIGN DEBTS

Will Be Decreed for Six Months by Germany, London Paper Says

LONDON, May 25 (CP via Havas). — The Daily Herald, today, said Germany would shortly decree a moratorium of six months dating from July 1 on all her foreign debts, except the Dawes and Young loans.

Germany's intention, the paper said, is to utilize the moratorium period for carrying on separate negotiations with credit representatives of different countries with a view to obtaining, on condition of payment of a part of the interests on her debt, trade agreements stipulating purchase of a greater quantity of German merchandise or the granting of new credits to the Reich for the purchase of raw materials indispensable to her industries,

Preliminaries for Naval Conference To Be Started Soon

Overtures by Great Britain Bring Agreements for Preparatory Discussion From Other Powers—Consideration of Political Questions Not Contemplated

LONDON, May 25 (AP).—Great Britain has decided to sound out the views of the leading naval powers, as to the advisability of starting a series of discussions in preparation for the 1935 conference.

Although Britain has taken the initiative in sounding out world opinion on the naval outlook, the official view is that preliminary discussions will not go far toward settling outstanding problems which will arise within the next year.

"In view of the fact that consideration of political questions is not contemplated in these discussions," a White Hall informant explained, "it is obvious they could not go very far toward settling outstanding problems, since political considerations will be the crux of the forthcoming conference."

UNITED STATES WILLING

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP).—The State Department disclosed today that Robert Worth Bingham, United States Ambassador to London, had been instructed to inform the British Foreign Office that the United States would be willing to engage in diplomatic discussions concerning the time, place and

POLICE DISCOVER GHASTLY RELICS OF BRUTAL MURDER

Criminal Investigators Find Evidence That Constables Carr and Gisborne Were Beaten to Death After Fierce Struggle on Canford Indian Reserve, Near Merritt—Patrolling River

Additional Detectives Are Sent From Coast to Scene

MERRITT, B.C., May 25 (CP). — Viciousness of the struggle which resulted in the probable slaying of two police officers at Canford, late Wednesday or early Thursday, was further emphasized tonight, as fresh evidence came to light. A piece of scalp and hair was found near the gate of the Canford Indian Reserve, and was tentatively identified as having come from the head of British Columbia Provincial Police Constable Percy Carr.

Carr and Dominion Indian Department Constable Frank H. Gisborne have been missing since they went to the Indian Reserve Wednesday night, to investigate the wounding, by stabbing, of an Indian woman. A thick stick, about four feet long, known as a "yoke," which is carried by Indians over their shoulders to convey buckets of water, was also found, thickly stained with blood. Police express the belief that this was used to club the officers to death.

Wild and zig-zagging tracks of the police automobile lead for some hundreds of yards from the Indian reserve to a point where Police Inspector John Shirras believes the most desperate struggle began. Gisborne, driving the car, fought virtually to his death, police believe. At this spot huge pools of blood on the sage-brush and rocky ground had been covered over by a felled tree.

GHASTLY EXHIBITS

Bloody exhibits are being gathered in the Provincial Court House here—blood-stained articles taken by the police from the Indian reserve, Indian houses, and from where the car was found. These include shirts, trousers, sections of trees and other articles.

Four Indians are now in jail here for investigation, but no charges have been laid in the case. One is suffering from serious head wounds and bruises.

A careful search is being made for the bodies of the two officers, believed to have been thrown into the Nicola River.

Unemployed from relief camps are patrolling the rapid waters of the river on both sides, throwing

VIAREGGIO, Italy, May 25 (CP-Havas). — Wreckers unwittingly exceeded their instructions, today, when fourteen dwellings collapsed following the demolition of an old building against which all the others leaned for support. The fifty-two citizens they formerly sheltered are now being cared for by the municipality.

PACT COSTLY TO DOMINION

Furrier Tells Senate Committee Sealing Treaty Is Helpful to Americans

OTTAWA, May 25 (CP).—Development of St. Louis, Mo., as a world market for the sale of Alaska seal skins, as opposed to London, England, had cost Canada millions of dollars, F. D. Purkholder, Ottawa furrier, told the Senate sealing committee today.

The "switch" had occurred after 1916 following an agreement to sell the total catch of the Pribilof Islands at St. Louis. A dressing and dying plant had been developed in the Missouri city with the United States Government charging $4.50 more per skin for processing than in England. The English processing was much superior, stated the Ottawa furrier.

ENCOURAGING PROSPECTS

If the return to processing in London eighteen months ago should make English dressed and dyed skins available for the trade, he saw most encouraging prospects for the future growth of the Alaskan seal business. Two years ago, he had advocated modification of the treaty so that the processing would take place in London or by a branch establishment in Canada.

Warm defence of the attitude of Canada under the treaty was given by W. A. Found, deputy minister of Fisheries. The pact provided that Canada should take delivery of her 15 per cent of the seal catch at the islands, which would involve sending a substantial, seaworthy vessel to these islands on a costly annual trip

Viscount Sumner Dies in England

IBSTONE, Buckinghamshire, England, May 25 (CP).—John Andrew Hamilton, first Viscount Sumner, died today at the age of seventy-five. He was a member of the British delegation to the Preparations Commission of the Paris Peace Conference in 1919.

Viscount Sumner was formerly a noted jurist and a Lord of Appeal in Ordinary from 1913 to 1933. He left no heir.

SULTAN OF SULU WANTS APOLOGY

Still Displeased Because No Salute Fired During Visit to Borneo

MANILA, May 25 (AP).—Once the ruler of an insular kingdom numbering 500,000 warlike Mohammedans, the Sultan of Sulu, whose power under the American flag has been fading year by year, waited here, today, for an apology from the Government of British North Borneo for its failure to salute him on his visit there last February.

Still clinging to the belief that he is entitled to the honors of royalty, the Sultan recently asked North Borneo authorities why they did not fire the customary twenty guns for him and his adopted daughter, the Princess Dayang Dayang.

SECULAR POWER GONE

North Borneo, once a part of the Sultan's realm, still technically recognizes his spiritual authority, but all the secular power that once was his now belongs to the United States and Great Britain. The British colony did, however, furnish the Sultan and the Princess with a bodyguard during their visit.

In striking contrast with his days of pomp and power, the aged Sultan, by name and title Hadji Muhamad Jamalul Kiram, Sultan of Sulu, Sultan of North Borneo, Judge of Agama and Appointive Senator of the Philippine Legislature, now lives in modest circumstances.

HAS INCOME OF $12,000

From the Philippine Government the British North Borneo Government and religious contributions, the Sultan now receives an annual income estimated at $12,000, which allows him to live somewhat pretentiously, but in nothing of the style that characterized him at the apex of his power.

WILL INSIST ON HALF OF PROFITS

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP).—The United States Government will insist that Congress retain in the new silver bill the 50 per cent tax on profits by speculators in the metal.

Secretary Henry Morgenthau, of the Treasury, told the House ways and means committee, today, that "the administration is very anxious that the tax feature stay in the bill."

He said that there was no reason why speculators who bought silver after May 15, 1934, should not contribute 50 per cent of their profits to the Government if the bill were enacted and the price of the metal rises because of it.

Morgenthau estimated that the levy would yield $25,000,000.

DISPUTE ARISES OVER AIR RACE

London-to-Melbourne Contest Said to Be Causing Much Discussion

LONDON, May 25 (CP).—A dispute arose tonight between an officer of the Royal Aero Club who has charge of the Melbourne centenary air race arrangements and who is chairman of the Melbourne centenary publicity committee.

A dispatch from Melbourne quoted the publicity chairman as saying the race was giving backers to the celebration more trouble than it was worth, that it had aroused envy and dissension between nations and that it had become a bone of contention, particularly among flyers in the United States.

EXPENSIVE LUXURY

He described it as an expensive luxury and said it would cost the city $50,000, apart from private donation of the $75,000 prize.

In London, Commander Perrin, of the Royal Aero Club, said there was no truth in the statement that the race had caused dissension among nations. Some points raised in the United States, he said, were made only by persons who were not serious competitors. He added that the rules of the race had been accepted as fair by every other nation without any protest.

NOT SHARED BY PUBLIC

He said, also, he felt sure the chairman's objection to spending $50,000, a figure he regarded as exaggerated, was not shared by the Melbourne public.

The race will be flown in October over a 13,000-mile course between England and Melbourne.

Canadian to Seek Flight Record Soon

LONDON, May 25 (CP).—Flying Seafarer II, formerly the Mollison's plane, L. G. Reid, a Canadian pilot, residing in London, and J. R. Ayling, of Brekhamstead, hope to set up a new world long distance record flight from Toronto, Canada, to Bagdad, early in next June.

As a preliminary the Seafarer II took off from Pendine Sands, Carmarthenshire, today flew to Hatfield, Hertfordshire, with a load of 460 gallons of petrol, representing a weight of 6,000 pounds. Reid and Ayling piloted the plane.

British Empire Great Factor for Peace Is Premier's Assertion

Would Like League of Amity Composed of United States and Nations Flying British Flag as Guarantee Against War

OTTAWA, May 25 (CP).—The British Empire had not followed a "policy of drift" in international affairs since the war, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett asserted before a meeting of the League of Nations Society in Canada, today.

Its policy had been one of maintaining the peace of the world and the solidarity of the Empire. He believed the British Empire had been one of the greatest factors for peace, and he expressed the view that, under present conditions, a "league of amity," made up of the United States and the nations flying the British flag would be a tremendous factor for peace.

CANADIAN INFLUENCE

The Prime Minister spoke briefly at a luncheon of the society, addressed by Escott Reid, secretary of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs. Speaking on "A Foreign Policy for Canada," Reid asserted: "It is about time that we stopped talking about what Great Britain, or France, or the United States, should do." Citizens of Canada could exert a direct influence over only one Government. That was the Government of Canada.

He expressed the belief that the League of Nations had not dealt with basic reasons for disputes, and that it had allowed itself to become "an instrument of the satiated powers against the proletarian powers."

Thus it was that powers like Japan, Germany and Italy were withdrawing their active support from the League.

Senator A. D. McRae, who moved in the Senate that Canada withdraw from the League of Nations, was to be congratulated on the fact that he refused to accept a policy of drift, Reid said.

CANADA'S CHOICE

But, if Canada withdrew from the League, could Great Britain also withdraw, and if she did, would it exempt her from being drawn into European wars? And, finally, if Great Britain was drawn into another first-class war, could Canada stay out? The only choice for Canada, in the event of Great Britain being drawn into another war, appeared to be between joining her and secession from the Empire.

If Canada seceded from the British Empire, Reid suggested this country would be dependent on the United States for defence. The Dominion might eventually become a protectorate of the republic.

But was the world situation hopeless as far as maintaining peace was concerned? There were steps to be taken which would help, and Canada should be willing to do her share. The Dominion, said Reid, must be willing to make necessary sacrifices.

SOME SACRIFICES

This country might, for instance, repeal the provisions of the Chinese Immigration Act and substitute an agreement like that with Japan, under which 150 Chinese would be admitted every year. Canada might be willing to accept the mandatory principle in respect to British possessions, thus sacrificing the tariff preference at present prevailing.

Mr. Bennett thought Reid had offered a violent indictment of the League of Nations. It must be remembered that the world was confronted with conditions and not theories. There was a very considerable body in the House of Commons and Senate which felt that the expenditure of Canada on the League of Nations was quite out of proportion to the benefits received. He was not one of these, said Mr. Bennett, because he realized it amounted to only about the cost of two days of the last war.

SLOW BUT CERTAIN

The policy followed in the British Empire was one of maintaining the peace of the world and the solidarity of the Empire. He believed the British Empire had been a great factor for peace. He warned the audience that the world moved slowly, but it progressed.

Creation of a portfolio of Minister of External Affairs, separate from the Prime Minister, and establishment of active committees on external affairs in both Houses was urged by the League of Nations Society in Canada, at the twelfth annual general meeting, today. Fifty-two delegates were present.

SANCTIONS SUGGESTED

Direct participation by Canada in international affairs by way of sanctions was suggested in a resolution introduced by Prof. F. H. Angus, of Vancouver.

J. S. Woodsworth, M.P., was of the opinion that Canadian participation should be only in economic sanctions.

The report of the treasurer, H. J. McNaulty, showed receipts of $9,191.75 and expenditures of $10,474.26. The newly-appointed national secretary, T. W. L. MacDermot, reported over 900 direct replies had been received for a syllabus for creation of study clubs.

PREPARE PLANS FOR NAVAL CONFERENCE

agenda for the conference to be held next year.

Japan has also, said dispatches from Tokio, instructed Tsuneo Matsudaira, the Japanese Ambassador in London, to inform Great Britain that Japan was prepared to enter into bilateral conversations on preliminary questions to pave the way for the general conference.

The State Department has received no official information concerning the attitude of any of the naval powers, aside from Great Britain, but diplomatic circles understood Italy and France also would participate in the discussions.

JAPAN'S REPLY COMING

TOKIO, May 26 (AP).—Japan probably this week-end will inform Great Britain of its readiness to participate in discussions preliminary to the 1935 naval conference, it was learned from a high official source today.

Koki Hirota, Foreign Minister, will indicate to Ambassador Matsudaira, Japanese representative at London, the form which Japan's response is to take.

The Japanese Government expects the London discussions not only will lay a general groundwork for next year's conference, but will delve into vital questions of naval limitation.

Thus far Japan has received no similar invitations from other powers, but it was indicated the Government would welcome an opportunity for preliminary discussions at Washington.

TRENDS IN THOUGHT

From the tone of editorial comments of the vernacular newspapers and from discussions with some officials there is emerging a strong indication of two important trends in Japanese thought toward naval questions. The first is that Japan fears an Anglo-American concert at the 1935 conference to bring pressure upon Japan. The second change is the intimation that Empire leaders are ready to abandon claims for actual parity of naval armaments; claims never enunciated by responsible officials, if the nation is given a higher ratio and a face-saving declaration of theoretical equality.

The three leading vernaculars, The Asahi, Hochi and Jiji, reflecting national reaction to unmistakable indications that Washington and London are strongly opposed to Japanese parity, asserted that Japan is not seeking actual tonnage equality with the United States and Great Britain.

STUDENTS GIVE MUCH PLEASURE

Studio Recital at Shrine Auditorium Aids Soroptimist Club Fund

Of tremendous value in an art studio of any kind is class enthusiasm and class spirit, and one is always instantly aware of the existence of this in any entertainment given by pupils of Mme. Eva Baird. Her studio recital at the Shrine auditorium last night was no exception. The atmosphere was most cheerful and refreshing, giving the impression that each worked for all and all for each, while a well-defined line of art technique principles was apparent in the method of tone production, clean-cut diction, artistic phrasing and general all-'round intelligent approach to the subject-matter.

An audience of 200 or more was present, and showed whole-hearted appreciation of the recital, the proceeds of which are to aid the Soroptimist Club welfare fund.

Composed entirely of vocal music, the programme was most excellent in choice of material and arrangement. The former was ambitious, but never beyond the capacities of the performer. The advantages of working in a studio where composition of such high standard is the accepted idea became more and more obvious as the evening advanced and one heard pupil after pupil attack with surprising confidence and understanding works of the most difficult character in Russian and German, French, Italian and English.

THE CLIMAX

The climax of achievement was reached at the very last of the programme when four of the class sang the difficult but ever-popular quartette from Verdi's "Rigoletto." Admirably accompanied at the piano by Miss Maquinna Daniels, this was a most creditable performance, faultlessly rehearsed by students who showed not only keenness and vocal capacity, but fine musical intelligence. They were recalled to the stage two or three times before they finally consented to repeat the number throughout.

The opening number was the duet from "Cosi fan tutte," by Mozart, sung by Sheila Conway and Daisy Booth, where the voices blended well and expressively. Outstanding among the numbers that followed were Margery Menson's dainty interpretation of Dr. Arne's "Lass With the Delicate Air," showing the light flexibility of this charming young voice; the "Convien partir," from Donizetti's "Daughter of the Regiment," sung by Daisy Booth, who has a voice of volume, good range, and musical quality; Jessie Snape's expressive singing of Roger Quilter's "Now Sleep the Crimson Petal" and Landon Ronald's "O Lovely Night," the singer's deportment being particularly attractive; Joyce Adams' musical and intelligent singing of Handel's "Care Selve"; Sheila Conway's interpretation of "One Fine Day," from Puccini's "Madame Butterfly," indicating a coloratura voice of great possibilities; Dick George's sympathetic version of "Passing By" (Purcell), which had unforced sentiment; Violet Wilson's experienced treatment of Wolf's "Verborgenheit" and Brahms' vivacious "Vergebleiches Stanchen," revealing the warmth and amplitude of her tone.

OTHER NUMBERS

Doreen Wilson's expressive interpretation of the well-known contralto solo from Saint Saens "Samson et Dalila," disclosed increasingly rich quality of her voice, and other singers were the promisingly brilliant coloraturas, Kathleen Redgrave Lavell, in Verdi's pyrotechnically difficult "Caro Nome," from "Rigoletto," and Dorothy Gough's very attractive singing of "Connais tu le Pays," from Thomas' "Mignon," which had consistent character, as well as delightful rhythm and phrasing. A naturally fine voice of amplitude and individuality was shown by Claire Layborn in her singing of Giordani's "Caro Mio Ben"; Jenny Hall sang the difficult "Visai d'Arte," from Puccini's "Tosca"; fine breadth of phrasing gave distinction to Norman Tyrrell's singing of the Handel oratorio, "Where'er You Walk"; Alan Taylor showed a voice of nice baritone quality in Tschalkowski's "Ye Who Have Yearned Alone," and Dave Bird gave an unaffectedly pleasing version of Hawley's "Sweetest Flower That Blows."

The singers in the much-enjoyed "Rigoletto" quartette were Kathleen Redgrave Lavell, Dorothy Gough, Norman Tyrrell and Jack Townsend. The able accompanists were Miss Maquinna Daniels and Dorothy Gough.

POLICE FIND GHASTLY RELICS OF SLAUGHTER

wire nets across the stream and bridges at other strategic points.

EXPERTS CALLED

The party of expert investigators from the Coast were expected to arrive before daybreak, to bring the police force here to nearly twenty. A police radio operator arrived from Kamloops this afternoon with equipment to put officials in direct wireless contact with Victoria headquarters.

The death car, covered by tarpaulin and guarded day and night, remains exactly as it was found. There is an abundance of blood in pools and spattered over the inside of the car. Inspector J. F. C. B. Vance, Vancouver criminologist, will examine this blood under a microscope and compare it with blood found on clothing of persons being investigated.

Police are on guard day and night at the Indian reserve.

Some clothing held by the police shows signs of recent washing.

It is revealed that a round rock, about two feet in diameter, near the edge of the road, diverted the car from an open pathway down the bank and caused it to lodge against a pine tree instead of being hurled, presumably with its dead occupants, into the river, thus foiling what is believed to have been a plan to effect a complete disappearance of car and officers into the river. The pool where the car was destined to go out of sight was estimated by police as about eighteen feet deep.

KILLED IN CAR

Progress of the investigation indicated that the men were battered to death before the car reached the bank.

Two searchers for the bodies, Joe Fraser and Jock Hamilton, worked from early morning to dark patrolling the edges of the Nicola River, covering seven miles of rocky bushland, and at times being forced to struggle through undergrowth for a considerable distance on their hands and knees. These men will go out in a police car again at 4 a.m. Their activity is typical of the work of searchers.

Finding of a body will, it is conceded, hasten a solution of the crime and bring the assailants to justice.

Eneas Wood, husband of the wounded Indian woman, was arrested Thursday for questioning. The woman is in hospital here suffering from wounds believed to have been caused by a knife.

INDIANS RESENTFUL

Indian officials stated today the Nicola Indians have been troublesome since last January.

They reported indignation had been shown by the Indians following a charge laid by Gisborne, as Indian department constable, against Provincial Game Warden Leo Jobin, of Nicola. Jobin was accused of having supplied alcoholic liquor to Indians at a Christmas Eve party.

When the case came up for trial on January 17, Indian witnesses and whites came from far and near, some on foot, others in automobiles and on horseback. All refused to accept witness fees. Evidence was recorded exonerating the warden from all blame and the charge was dismissed.

Some time later, Gisborne's automobile was found with all the tires slashed by a knife. Officials reported there had been other indications of resentment against him.

HAD SPLENDID RECORD

Provincial Constable Percy Carr had a splendid record in the force. One of the first to join up in the war, in the first Canadian Expeditionary Force, he served with the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry at the second battle of Ypres, and at Festubert later. He won the military medal for bravery on the field and was wounded and sent home in September, 1915, one of the first to return to this province from the front.

Born at Sheffield, England, in 1893, he was forty-one years of age. He joined the Provincial Police on May 6, 1916, and was stationed successively at Kamloops, Sicamous, Mt. Olie, Hanceville, Fort George, Anyox, Burns Lake, McBride and latterly at Merritt. He married a school teacher at Burns Lake.

Mrs. Carr and two children, aged seven and nine, respectively, reside at Merritt.

RESPECTED IN SERVICE

Known as a man absolutely devoid of fear, Carr was respected and esteemed in the service. His work came early to the attention of his superiors by this fact. Once when sent to arrest two men in an inn, he was overpowered, beaten and thrown out of a window one floor up. He returned into the building, arrested his two assailants and brought them in alone. Similar instances had earned him a reputation for courage unsurpassed in the force.

Dominion Constable Frank H. Gisborne, also married, was a Federal employee in the Department of the Interior until transfer of the railway belt lands to the Province. He was then transferred to the Indian agency branch of the service, and was very highly thought of by his superiors in that service.

PERSONALLY POPULAR

Both men were personally popular and both versed in Indian affairs. If foul play has befallen them, no stone will be left unturned to unravel the mystery. Finger-print, physical and pathological analysis of objects found at the scene will be made commencing at daylight today. Much has already been done, but expert advice is required to analyze clues found.

Meanwhile, four men are being held on an open charge pending fuller investigation of the affair.

nouncement by Charles W. Hope, executive secretary of the Regional Labor Board, that release has been ordered for all Alaska ships bound for points north of Kuskokwim River.

The authorization to free the vessels destined for the North, made by Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, now in San Francisco, will be put before the longshoremen strikers and other striking unions at another meeting tomorrow morning at Tacoma, Secretary Dewey Bennett, of the Seattle local, said.

RETURNS WITH CARGO

Despite Mayor John F. Dore's offer of adequate protection for any effort to reopen the port, no attempt was made to unload the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Heisu Maru, and the vessel sailed for Yokohama today, carrying with her a cargo of silk brought in several days ago.

Because of the strike, J. B. Fitzgerald, of the West Coast Lumbermen's Association, said ten mills were closed in the Grays Harbor area alone. Shipments of lumber from Washington and Oregon dropped more than 17,000,000 feet, compared with the previous week.

have anything to do with Britain. Afterwards, if there is any form of association, it must be in the common interests of both. We must be the judges of whether it is to our advantage or not."

SECOND CHAMBERS USELESS

In discussing the Senate Abolition Bill, the President said second chambers in parliamentaly government form effective safeguards for neither the constitution nor the liberties of the people. Many second chambers in Europe existed only for the preservation of ancient rights and privileges.

Mr. De Valera contended that the House of Lords in Britain—always, he said, an ally of the Conservatives—was regarded as a sort of historical monument, to be tolerated only as long as it did not become obnoxious. In France, the Senate opposed workers' holidays, prevented enfranchisement of women, and "opposed every modern social development."

CHARGES EXCHANGED

The President said that the Irish Free State Senate had gone out of its way to wreck legislation sponsored by him. His opponents countered with the charge that he was seeking to establish himself as dictator.

The Senate Abolition Bill is President De Valera's seventh amendment of the constitution in two years. It is anticipated that the Chamber will see a warm discussion on the bill.

Sixteen articles of the constitution must be deleted to get rid of the Second Chamber, and fourteen others must be amended to conform. Some of these clauses involve fundamental matters like the removability of judges. In the discussion in the Dail, the President said members of the judiciary would be in no worse position with the Senate gone than they were when the late Cosgrave Government enjoyed a political majority in the Upper House.

SCHOOL SYSTEM UNDER REVIEW

Esquimalt May Adopt Four-Year Course—Teachers to Investigate

A four-year high school policy for Esquimalt, starting in September, seems possible, following a meeting of the municipal board, last night. Miss F. N. Hewlings and Hugh W. Creelman, principals of the high and public schools, respectively, were appointed to secure full particulars regarding this move.

When they have completed their deliberations, they will present a full report to the school board, and that body will decide what action will be taken.

Although very little discussion took place last night, it was pointed out that owing to the heavy curriculum at present in vogue, students find it extremely difficult to complete their courses in three years.

It was also stated it would be necessary to appoint another teacher to the high school staff. When the teachers' report has been completed, Major A. A. Warder, chairman, will call a special board meeting and a final decision will be reached.

employees of the Electric Auto-Lite Company, whose plant has been the centre of the strike disorders since Tuesday, was beaten severely by a group of rioters and stripped of his clothing. He was rescued by officers.

BARRAGE OF BRICKS

At twilight another brick barrage started. There was the crack of a rifle, and spectators said a guardsman had fired at the fringe of the crowd.

Strikers at the Electric Auto-Lite Company rejected the peace proposal submitted by Charles P. Taft, Federal mediator, both in individual sections and as a whole. It was learned they were ready to end the strike if the plant, together with two other auto plants in Toledo, were closed while the questions involved were submitted to the automobile labor board at Detroit. The strikers also asked withdrawal of troops.

IS OPPOSED TO STERILIZATION

State Council of Knights of Columbus Against Proposal—Name Officers

Emphatically opposed to the suggested sterilization of the mentally unfit on the ground that it is inhuman and contrary to the principles of Christianity and is a retrograde step in civilization, delegates attending the twenty-first convention of the British Columbia State Council of the Knights of Columbus voted down a resolution presented here, yesterday.

The resolution came before the committee on resolutions and laws, and, without discussion, was promptly sent onto the floor of the conference. A lengthy debate ensued, and on the division found few supporters.

IS FINAL RULING

The matter of sterilization of mentally deficient males has been very much to the fore in British Columbia of late, and the decision of the state council is of interest to subordinate units of the order throughout the province. It was the first motion of its kind to be submitted to a state council for ruling.

Yesterday was the first day of the state council conference, and delegates were busy until late in the evening clearing away the mass of business that had accumulated since the last convention a year ago. The delegates, however, were able to finish and adjourn for the state council dinner, which closed the annual proceedings.

OFFICERS ELECTED

One of the important matters completed yesterday was the election of state officials. H. W. Colgan, of Vancouver, was chosen as state deputy, succeeding M. Leo Sweeney, also of Vancouver, who presided over the convention here. J. J. McKenna, Vancouver, was elected state secretary; Samuel Hepworth, of Trail, state advocate; J. J. Pavle, of Kelowna, state warden, and C. H. Banks, of New Westminster, was elected as state treasurer. Delegates to the Supreme Council are J. Connick and C. H. Banks. Kelowna was selected as the 1935 meeting place of the state council.

Reports of officers were received and adopted at the afternoon session as well as reports of committees and grand knights. Assets of the order were shown as $41,000,000, which gives the Knights of Columbus sixth place, in strength, of all fraternal organizations.

Vancouver Island Lifeboat Association to Sponsor Exhibitions on June 6

Victoria citizens will be entertained by an exhibition of rescue work, when the Vancouver Island Lifeboat Association places its lifeboat in the waters of the Crystal Garden pool at 8 p.m., on June 6. This lifeboat will be stationed later at Clover Point by the association.

A number of local divers have volunteered to perform during the evening, and a life-saving class from the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club will give a demonstration under the leadership of W. T. Stanyon, instructor.

Proceeds will be turned over to the association's fund to help in establishing life-saving depots along the Coast.

AFTER BABY CAME
Mother Put On Weight
TELLS HOW SHE GOT BACK TO NORMAL

"Before having my baby," writes a young mother, "I weighed 140 lbs. Afterwards—to my great dismay—I weighed 175 lbs., and gradually increased to 183 lbs. Then I read of Kruschen Salts (six weeks ago), and I decided to try them, at the same time dispensing with sugar, potatoes and white bread.
"To my great joy, when I weighed last Wednesday, it went 169½ lbs. I feel so jubilant in the thought that if I keep on with this, I shall regain my normal weight, and once again be able to go in for the sports and pastimes I had to discard owing to being sensitive about my fatness. I feel I have a lot of pleasure and happiness in store."—(Mrs.) L. B.
There are six vital mineral salts in Kruschen. These salts combat the cause of fat by assisting the internal organs to perform their functions properly—to throw off each day those waste products and poisons which, if allowed to accumulate, will be converted by the body's chemistry into fatty tissue.
Kruschen Salts do not reduce you overnight—like so many products claim to do. But taken regularly over a period of time—with a modified diet and gentle exercise, half a teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast will take away unhealthy flesh and restore your figure to its normal weight.
Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle.

Gordon Sinclair on Hunt for Black Art In African Jungles

Intrepid Reporter Finds Voodoo of Togoland Just a Racket, With Gin the Great Desideratum of Kings and Magicians

This is the first article of Gordon Sinclair's African series. With other articles which will appear daily in The Daily Colonist, it was mailed from the interior town of Osbomeshe, Nigeria, on April 14, in time to catch the next boat. However, it is from Lagos, Nigeria, the seaport town, that Sinclair greets you in the opening article. Later articles will retrace his experiences coming down the coast and will then proceed with the main thread of the adventure. In a letter to the editor, he writes: "I have had a bad leg from a scorpion bite, and fresh worms picked up in Guinea have paid a return visit. I'm having a native witch doctor see what he can do about them."

By GORDON SINCLAIR

LAGOS, Nigeria.—High in the mystic mountains of New Guinea are the houses of death. Crude fish-shaped shacks, these, can kill any tribesman who walks in to observe their mysteries . . . and they frequently do.

On the banks of India's mighty mother of waters, the Ganges, live yogies, and yes, men who can make you see things which don't exist. They can call down birds from the air, fish from the stream and snakes from the swamp land.

In the foothills of Kinaballa, the sacred mountain of Borneo, dwell imps and elfs and hobgoblins whose help can be bought toward making you irresistible in love or triumphant in power, depending on which you'd rather have.

It's all very fascinating and unbelievable, and, in the course of prowling the world's far corners, I've written of these fantasies. But they were always a background against which the pattern of native loves or deaths or money business was woven.

Experts had told me that the true home of the black arts was the jungle lands of West Africa. Here, they said, live the panther men and the owl-eyed masters of voodoo, who can make demons and imps take castor oil or jump the fiery hoop. And if you really want to smell out the sorcerers in their exciting business of calling ghosts by their first names, Africa's the place to unlimber the typewriter.

So here we are . . . and not too pleased about it, either.

WHERE YOU FIND MAGIC

For nineteen days and nights I've been drifting down the coast of the black continent. From Gibraltar to the metropolis of the west on Italian and Dutch cargo boats. I've watched them load cloves in Togoland and cocoa in Gambia; palm oil in Dahomey and nuts in Senegal; gold in Nigeria and beer in the Gold Coast. Off Grand Bassam, I saw rough seas toss twelve husky oarsmen into a shark-filled whirlpool and helped them climb to safety on the rat lines without a casualty. In Sierra Leone, I heard the talking drums boom their messages of conquest and disaster across the midnight plains.

But I found no magic . . . until I got deep into creeper jungle.

Instead, governors were giving garden parties, clubs were holding golf tournaments, and chambers of commerce were solemnly debating customs duties or the menace of cheap tennis shoes from Japan. I went ashore by mammy chair and by surf boat; I climbed hand over hand on a rope, strung from the greasy deck to the golden sands of Africa.

Twice I was waded ashore on the broad shoulders of black warriors, only to be met by wasp-waisted little immigration men who wouldn't let me land until I paid $325.

Off the Ivory Coast, for instance, I pictured elephants. Great dust-raising herds of shrieking tuskers ploughing through the mahogany forests. It would be great to go in and photograph elephants right in their own backyard. Great? Sure, but just about as easy as hunting moose in Toronto. First it costs $600 to get here, then $325 landing fee, then $125 licence, then porters and carriers and chief bottle washers until all you've got left out of $2,000 is enough licences to paper the walls with and a dim impression that somewhere back of that gaudy apron of beach there are supposed to be elephants.

In Togoland, after getting ashore in a bulky basket that looked and swayed like an elephant howdah, a chief with a white beard and a great booming voice like a foghorn mounted a Dutchman and I on milky white stallions, and led us off into the jungle to see what he called "the big, big smell."

The chief, on a ratty little horse, swung through narrow paths in the jungle and pointed out the meaning of various fetishes hanging in the trees. There were lions' claws and monkey skulls, stuffed baboons and dried lizards by the dozen. Occasionally, in the path, were carved stones, which, he said, bore secret stories of dark doings up further. We could hear bubbling drums and the humming swish of bamboo voodoo pipes.

CANNIBALISTIC WHOOPLA

There was a compound in the jungle, and as we neared this, the old boy unloosed a booming command like that of a liner's whistle. The gates swung open to show us a wild scene of cannibalistic whoopla in the best Hollywood tradition. Men painted with blue chalk in spectacular hierogiyphics were whooping and cavorting like a ballet of adagio dancers, and women were shrieking in mad crescendo on the outskirts. It looked exactly like a circus with white stallions and all the trimmings except pink lemonade.

The king, flanked by the nobles of his court, every one of them a first son by one wife or another, invited us to sit with him. He wore a wing collar, top hat with a hole in it, no shirt, but the kind of grey striped trousers you find on Premier Bennett or a bridegroom. A nude girl brought chairs, set them out for us, drew herself stiffly to attention and saluted. Then she broke into a grin of ivory whiteness and winked.

The tumult grew louder. Some boys brought a basket filled with mouldy antelope skulls. Some girls brought mildewed swords from sword fish and piled them like a tepee.

Then there was a hush. The king nudged me with a crooked staff painted in golden circles and pointed to a round mud hut. Out of this, like a charging Andalusian bull, came the voodoo doctor. He was a fiendish-looking creature with straw hair and a mask with great round eyes whiter than headlights. Around his neck was a snake. He and the snake were going to search for tribal traitors. Somebody had been two-timing the crops or putting the jinx on something or other, and they intended to find out who was the culprit.

'Round and 'round the old boy they went moaning and muttering like a crazy man. He frequently got down on his knees and sniffed the sand like a beagle. Once while doing this, the snake dropped from his shoulders and started away in long, sinewy swings. He stood over it, confident and commanding. Then he said something and the snake came back.

IT'S JUST A GAME

He went 'round and 'round faster, smelled oftener and whooped louder. Then, satisfied at last, he turned around three times and stopped dead. The snake instantly stiffened and pointed its long, slim snout at a girl. The girl dropped her eyes and stood on one leg. The voodoo man approached, hissing and muttering. The snake continued to point. The girl let out one mad shriek and started for the voodoo hut. She plunged in on all fours like a ball player sliding for third and vanished. The voodoo man whisked off his mask, came over and sprawled on the ground. His snake slipped quietly away.

The voodoo man was young and handsome. "Got a cigarette?" he asked. I supplied smokes and a match.

"Like the show?" he asked. "Very fascinating," I said, feeling like a liar because I hadn't once got away from the feeling that here was a well-rehearsed sucker act for gullible globe girdlers.

"I can do better . . . by the moon," he whispered.

He took us around and showed us the usual assortment of stuffed birds and snakes with which magic charms are supposed to be worked. I was politely bored. When we came to go the voodoo man came along.

We had to walk back toward the beach and the heat was stifling.

"The king is vexed," the ju ju chap said.

"Vexed? What's wrong?"

"You brought no gift."

"No, sorry . . . I didn't know."

"That's all right. I'll come along and take it back. A half dozen bottles of gin will be enough."

SENEGAL'S DIFFERENT

So that was it . . . the racket. And it was typical of the voyage down the coast. Smelly old boys basking in gorgeous titles and the sinister reputation of blackest Africa, clawed me here and there, whispered of orgies or perils or rivers of blood. If I'd only buy them gin. The drums talked and the winds moaned. But never once in those nineteen days have I felt the slow rising of hairs on the back of my neck. Never have I felt that here was the real thing. I was tempted very much to chuck the whole ju ju quest.

However, if you'll start with me in Senegal tomorrow, we'll cruise the shores and spy out the fetish paths. And sooner or later I guarantee that those with weak hearts will lay off this stuff.

Labor Uniting to Oppose Fascism

LONDON, May 25 (CP).—A special meeting of delegates of the London Trades Council last night decided, by a vote of 159 to 39, to take steps that would unite the whole London Labor movement in effective resistance to Fascism.

Opposition to the resolution proposing such steps was taken by a minority group mainly on the ground that it would unite trades unions in a co-operative political organization, but would not include Communists.

SIR MICHAEL NAIRN SPENDING FEW DAYS HERE WITH PREMIER

Sir Michael Nairn, president of the Michael Nairn & Greenwick Company Ltd., manufacturers of linoleums, with a large factory at Kirkcaldy, Scotland, accompanied by Lady Nairn, arrived in Victoria yesterday, en route to Scotland from Australia and New Zealand, after inspecting the company's plant at Sydney.

The firm in which Sir Michael is interested is closely connected with the Dominion Linoleum Company, of Montreal. Sir Michael left the Old Country in January and has spent the intervening period in various parts of Australia and New Zealand, crossing the Pacific aboard the liner Monterey, which docked at San Pedro instead of San Francisco, because of the longshoremen's strike.

While in the city, Sir Michael and Lady Nairn will be the guests of Premier and Mrs. T. D. Pattullo. Sir Michael is a cousin of the Premier.

ORDERED HOUSE TO BE VACATED

Judge Lampman Finds That Carl H. Callaway Has No Legal Right to Occupation

The case of Carl H. Callaway, which was in the city police court about a week ago, reached the County Court, yesterday, when an eviction order was sought against the Callaway family for being illegally in occupation of a house on Hereward Road, belonging to Mrs. R. Farrand. Judge P. S. Lampman found that Mr. Callaway had never rented the house and, moreover, had never paid any rent. The landlord was, therefore, entitled to possession of the premises.

D. S. Tait represented the owner, who testified that the house had never been rented by her to the occupant. She left the renting to her agents, Lee & Fraser. Arthur Lee testified that he had never rented to the occupant.

The defendant put forward the claim that there had been an understanding between his son and the owner of the house. He had been willing to vacate if the owner would make an allowance for a garden that had been put in.

The case in the police court was one of meeting a charge of trespassing, which was dismissed, the magistrate feeling that there had been some color of an understanding about entering.

First Conversation Held Between Alaska and United States—Test Is Successful

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, May 25 (AP). — The first radio telephone conversation between Alaska and the continental United States occurred here yesterday when Captain Frank Stoner, executive officer of the Washington Alaska military cable telegraph system of the United States army signal corps, talked for thirty minutes with his sons, Frank, Jr., and Larry, in the Seattle cable office over two-way equipment.

Captain Stoner said the voices from Seattle, almost 2,000 miles away, were heard as clearly as in ordinary conversation in the Anchorage offices.

He said the equipment is not intended for commercial service at present.

The radiophone here is one of several sets installed in the larger Alaska cities for feeder services from outlying points in Alaska to the main wireless stations.

Chevrolet's KNEE-ACTION is Protected FULLY-ENCLOSED

Flying stones, mud, oil or water can't harm the sturdy mechanism

Housing cut away to show enclosed Knee-Action construction.

A SMOOTH, restful, gliding ride . . . a bounceless back seat . . . a new feeling of safety and relaxation in high-speed or rough-road travel. All these pleasures are yours with Knee-Action wheels. And if your car is a 1934 Master Chevrolet, you not only get this gliding ride at its best, you also get several other Knee-Action advantages not found in any other low-priced car! The reason: Chevrolet's Knee-Action is of a special kind. The rights to it are held exclusively by General Motors. In this construction, the coil spring, which is the heart of the mechanism, is safely and solidly enclosed in a heavy steel housing. This keeps out dirt and flying stones, protects the spring from wear, tear, and exposure. What's more, this design results in shock-proof steering—the elimination of shake, shudder and shimmy when the front wheels meet a bump.

Come to our showrooms. See and drive the new Chevrolet. You'll find that everything about this big, economical automobile reflects Chevrolet's well-known policy: to build the most cars, by building the best cars of low price!

"CONTROLLED INFLATION"

The "controlled inflation" that Mr. G. G. McGeer is recommending to us illustrates the tendency of theorists to imagine, when they have invented a pretty name for something they desire, that in devising the name they have ipso facto created the thing itself. It must not be supposed, however, that Mr. McGeer is altogether at ease in his own mind regarding the actual operation of his scheme of inflation of currency. His secret uneasiness betrays itself in the nature of the safeguards that he proposes. The sovereign remedy that Mr. McGeer recommends to insure the effective operation of his monetary policy is to invoke the aid of an amended criminal law which would brand as a traitor anyone guilty of corrupting the administration of that policy, and condemn him to suffer the penalty of death.

No doubt Mr. McGeer thought he was making a strong point when he uttered these seemingly strong but really very weak and foolish words. Under our present system, the system which stood unshaken in the storm that wrecked banks in the United States by thousands, it is to the personal interest of the banker to see to it that the money entrusted to him by his depositors is carefully and soundly invested so that he will be in a position to pay to the depositors the 2 1-2 per cent interest that he promised to pay. Under this system it is not necessary to invent horrid penalties like shooting at sunrise. The banker is just as keen to make sound loans as the depositor is to get his monthly interest.

It is to be hoped that Mr. McGeer will forget his proposed additions to the Criminal Code, and try to remember that what is wanted in our national life is the co-operation of men of good will in working the institutions of the country as they develope. To construct a new monetary plan which depends for its enforcement upon an addition to the Criminal Code conceived in the spirit of a revolutionary doctrinaire is not in keeping with the common sense of our British traditions.

PSYCHOLOGY AND COMMON SENSE

The word psychology has been for some years and is even now a prime favorite with a large public. It is frequently heard in mercantile circles and we hear of the psychology of advertising. It is used by physicians and healers who speak much of the psychology of health. Of course teachers are interested in the psychology of learning the three R's. Politicians, keen to observe any new political movement or change of political opinion, sometimes speak learnedly of the inter-relations of psychology and politics. Honest and perhaps puzzled clerics read learned tomes which treat of the psychology of religion. Playwrights and directors study, even if they do not master, the psychology of the drama. There are books upon the psychology of alcoholism, of behavior, of dress, of fasting, of murder, of golf, of selling life insurance, of package labels, even a psychology of death. The terms psychological, psycho-neurosis, psychopathetic and psycho-analyst are so often used nowadays as to suggest the possibility that they are intended to serve much the same purpose as that blessed word Mesopotamia.

It used to be the fashion in certain quarters to bracket psychology along with phrenology. The mind, it was said, could not be measured and, therefore, psychology could never attain the status of a science. Opinions regarding mental faculties, guesses as to their relation to the shape of the skull, even carefully observed and recorded facts about sensation and memory and the like were all very well, but phrenology was a pseudo-science and psychology was probably not much better.

The ancients knew a good deal about mental processes. Aristotle is credited with having expounded the association of ideas. The difference between sensory and motor nerves was known three centuries B.C. Galen, who flourished in the second century of our era, gave us the classification of temperaments with which we are still familiar: Sanguine, choleric, melancholic, and phlegmatic. St. Augustine had much to say about the faculties of the mind. The Schoolastics were by no means inactive in this branch of study. In modern times, about a century ago in fact, investigators began experimental work and something was found out concerning the time occupied in mental processes, the force necessary to produce sensations of a certain intensity, the accuracy of individual observers, their power of remembering, and much more of the same kind.

Before long, intelligence testing began to flourish in school circles and with it came intelligence quotients, "mental age," and subnormal mentality. Next appeared the psycho-analysts, who hopefully thought that they had discovered a method by which they could instruct everybody in every line of activity from selling bonds to the managing of a household or a mental hospital or a bank or a police department. The method seems to consist chiefly in probing mercilessly into the depths of the emotional life of individuals, a region believed by many to be a matter of private concern. Psycho-analysis, however, seems to have gone into an eclipse. Grace Adams, a writer on psychology, notes that whereas ten years ago no less than eleven American magazines printed articles on "the sub-conscious," not one popular periodical contained a single article on the subject in 1930. Behaviorism, or psychology minus consciousness, rose like a rocket ten years ago, reached its highest popularity in a few years, and has since steadily declined.

Experimental psychology is still pursued by patient investigators in laboratories equipped with carefully-devised apparatus. That it has been of some service to the working teacher in elementary and secondary schools can hardly be denied. The great hopes which were entertained regarding it, however, have not been realized. Modern psychologists have introduced a lot of new terms and have advanced some new theories, but teaching continues to be pretty much what it always was, a matter of personality, sympathy, insight, and the old-fashioned psychology of common sense.

GAELIC SPEECH IN CANADA

A delegation from An Comunn Gaidhealach, the national Gaelic society of Scotland, will pay a visit this Summer to their fellow Celts in Canada. Invitations have gone to them from as far west as this province, but the trans-Atlantic Highlanders will hardly get farther than the Maritime Provinces. A letter appeared recently in The Colonist appealing to Highlanders in Canada to connect with the newly-formed Clan Chattan Association of Great Britain, whose object was stated to be the preservation of the clan. These two overtures result from the revived interest in things Gaelic which is taking place in Scotland. Gaelic literature and Gaelic traditions are being fostered by the An Comunn whose annual Mod, or festival, draws out an enthusiastic expression of the Celtic spirit. Through the efforts of the Education Committee of the Northern Counties more than 10,000 pupils are studying the ancient language in the public schools. Professors of Gaelic literature in the university supplement the well-sustained Gaelic preaching in the Highlands.

The visitors will find a different situation in Canada, even in the eastern part of it. Without doubt they will receive a truly Highland welcome, but not all of it in the Highland tongue. It may be also that the clansmen of Canada, the Mackintoshes, Macphersons and the rest, will respond to the outstretched hand from the other side of the water. This is a day for tradition and ancestry. Is not the United Empire Loyalist movement growing? St. Andrew's societies prosper, and it is said that hardly anywhere is the memory of Robert Burns honored more than here beside the Pacific. The visitors, however, will find that the men of the moor and the clachan are fast forgetting their ancestral speech. Sermons in Gaelic are becoming less and less frequent. Grandmother in Cape Breton may read her Gaelic Bible, but her grandchild knows more Latin and French than he does of the musical tongue of his ancestors. Like Welsh and the national European languages, Gaelic is doomed to early extinction here. The English school kills it. We can only hope for the continuance in Canada of something of the Gaelic spirit, with its sense of the infinite, and the mystery of life, its love of beauty, its splendid loyalty and fellowship.

The Hamilton Spectator says that walking is becoming almost obsolete in North America. The consequence is a loss of health. One reason assigned for less walking is the fact that there are so few places where the pastime may be indulged in without risk. The solution, as seen by The Spectator, is in the making of sidewalks along the highways, and these, it believes, could be readily undertaken in connection with ditch-filling operations. In Britain, where $250,000,000 is being spent on roadways, one-tenth of the money is set aside for the provision of footpaths.

"ICHABOD"?

I would like to see every business organization in this country pass a resolution calling upon the Government to turn away from the pursuit of a chimera and devote itself to realities and to the fulfilment of its bounden duty, namely, the defence of our land, our people, and our Empire, against any and every conceivable eventuality. Mr. Baldwin, in the House of Commons on March 8, told us that if the present armaments convention fails he will start again the next morning to get an air convention; but is there any more likelihood of success with the one than with the other, and dare we wait? I submit that any further delay, in view of the present temper in Europe, is nothing more or less than a gamble, a gamble so desperate in character that no business man would be a party to it. If the gamble should fail, it means the end of our country and its power for good in the world. It means that there will be nothing left to be done but to write "Ichabod" upon the tombstone of the greatest Empire that the world has yet known. "What is all the world to a man if his wife is a widow?"—Sir Ernest Petter in The National Review.

Note and Comment

comes incidentally. Make it the object of pursuit, and it leads us a wild goose chase, and is never attained.—Hawthorne.

Presumably the experience of poets as they warble their ways through life cannot be materially different from that of common wayfarers. Idols are often shattered and the fondest hopes fade. We are beginning to lose our faith in the wisdom of editors. There was a time when we could not approach the presence of an editor, if not with fear and trembling, at least with awe and reverence. Up till last night we did not believe that the mental balance of any editor would be upset in the presence of the N.R.A. and the state of unrest the economic and political remedy for all the ills of business has created in the United States.

Last night we read an article written by Walter Lippmann, one of the most distinguished of United states journalists, which shattered our faith in the wisdom of editors. This morning we met an editor whose views on politics and economics completely buried the faith which had been destroyed beyond resurrection. The result is that we are left with a conviction that editors in point of wisdom are just about on a level with professors. Mr. Lippmann apparently does not believe that the N.R.A. will be a success, but he suggests that the N.R.A. may be developed into something which may be a complete success.

This triumph is to be achieved on the ruins of the existing but tottering political and economic systems. Democracy has had its day. It has failed in many countries. If it is not to be a general failure it must be remodelled in the countries which are still trying to make something out of it. Mr. Lippmann says the people of the United States will never submit to an arbitrary dictatorship such as they have in Italy and other European nations, but their only hope of salvation lies in the acceptance of a voluntary dictatorship.

An editor of the old school we used to revere certainly would declare that the difference between an arbitrary dictatorship and a voluntary or co-operative dictatorship is the difference between Tweedledum and Tweedledee. Many an argument in the newspapers has been capped by just such an expression. A dictatorship is a dictatorship whether it be of the proletariat or of the individual. Freedom of speech and of thought are impossible under any such system. There may still be a few people in the United States who attach some importance to the Declaration of Independence, which is considered a perpetual guarantee of individual as well as of state liberty.

No one will suggest that the present conditions of life in the United States or anywhere else are in accord with the highest ideals. We all have high ideals, and all are striving for the attainment of those high ideals. We heard a British Columbia philosopher once describe a lower animal as leading an ideal existence. This creature did nothing for itself. Everything necessary to its continued existence was done for it. But the animal was a brute, and creatures of the higher order are not brutes. The brute had to pay for its privileges by living a life of restraint. It was not a free agent.

Under Mr. Lippmann's system, which he says will save the United States from chaos, the state will do everything for men which under the old system men were expected to do for themselves. Knowing the human nature of men, the disposition of men to be jealous of one another, and the inclination of men to take advantage of the weaknesses of their fellow-men and to expect other men to do things for them which they should do for themselves, we do not believe that any system of voluntary dictatorship would endure very long. Under the original economic order there was a natural law that the individual who was too indolent to provide for his own needs must abide by the consequences of his laziness or lack of enterprise. Under that system there is no doubt that many individuals pitted their wits against the industry of their neighbors. That feature of the old order still prevails to some extent, but measures are being adopted to remedy the abuse. Thus the old question is being put in a new form, whether it is better to try to remedy the ills we know than fly to those we know not of.

Our faith in the judgment of editors was completely shattered this morning when one of the fraternity assured us with conviction that he had become an advocate of the principles of technocracy, for under that perfect mathematical system perfect balance would be established between production and consumption and the needs of all would be equitably provided for. If a man needed a pair of boots, for example, he would make an application to the chief technocrat, an order would be issued, and the goods provided. Presumably if an editor were furnished with a pair of boots he would be expected to give something in return for the footwear. The products of editors are newspapers. How many newspapers would be equivalent in value to a pair of boots, and in what manner would the balance be adjusted? We never thought that editors would be counted among the mad people of this mad world.

DISPLAY IS MADE OF ARROW HEADS

A very interesting display is on view in the window of Wilson & Lenfesty, on Government Street, which depicts the handiwork of the ancient Indian tribes who resided about Sooke Harbor. The collection is made up of arrow heads, numbering over 100 in the display, together with ancient axes and knives, the whole exhibit manifesting the wonderful perfection to which the Indians of bygone days brought their weapon and tool-making with the crude facilities at hand.

The exhibit, mounted in a very artistic manner, spells out the name "Sunny-Shores Camp," and is the work of the proprietor of that resort, H. Bracken, who, at his camp, just at the beginning of Saseenos, is a veritable mine for these relics.

Mr. Bracken is of the opinion that his camp is located on an old battleground, which was the scene of many battles in days long past. At one point on the camp ground is a mound of ashes ten feet or more in height, which was evidently a dumping ground for the Indians.

Among the tools that are on display are axes and knives brought to a remarkably sharp edge. There is indicated that these were ground on some hard stone to produce the finish that has been effected. The implements are symmetrical in form, showing considerable mechanical artistry in connection with the work. The arrow heads manifest the slow chipping which must have been persevered in in reducing the heads to the required size and shape.

The time used is Pacific Standerd for the 120th Meridien west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight The figures for height serve to distinguish high weter from low water. Where blanks occur in the teble, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successaive tida' periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of weter on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

To find the depth of weter on the sill of the Sonahess drydock, add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given

MICHEL MINES AT STANDSTILL

Miners and Operators Deadlocked Over Differences as Strike Proceeds

According to provincial advices, yesterday, miners and operators in the Michel field of the Crow's Nest coal area are deadlocked over differences culminating in a strike of 367 men earlies this week. Negotiations are in abeyance without any request yet for provincial intervention.

A few days ago the men voted to strike by a ballot of 234 to 121, with twelve spoiled ballots, the walk-out affecting nearly 400 men. The men complained of the conditions of work, and averred terms of the Coal Mines Regulation Act were not being observed in regard to an eight-hour day. There is some provision in the act for emergency work on longer duration.

ORDERS ON HAND

Prior to the strike, the Michel colliery had been working steadily, supplying orders in Alberta and Saskatchewan, and in Eastern British Columbia areas, with a small percentage of sales south of the line.

Thomas Uphill, Labor member for Fernie, has been in touch with the Province over the strike, urging an early settlement.

Unless expressly asked to do so, it is doubtful if the Government will intervene.

Greenwood District Mining Development Arouses Enthusiasm

Old Properties Being Operated — Expect Big Camp to Be Formed at Jewel Lake—Rock Creek Placers Active

GREENWOOD, May 25. — Based on a geological and engineering examination of the properties of the Jewel Lake Mines, Ltd., adjoining the Dentonia, by F. J. Crossland, M.E., residents of Greenwood and vicinity are visualizing even greater mining development in this region than was optimistically predicted earlier in the year.

Already mining is under way in every old camp in the district, and both lode and placer operations are being advanced all the way from Rock Creek to beyond Jewel Lake, formerly known as Long Lake. In this area some properties are already nearing the shipping stage, while many of them are showing up values which were overlooked in the earlier period of mining. Present viewpoint, based on the latest examination of the geology of the area, is that mineralization will extend to depths which were never touched in former operations.

VALUES TO DEPTH

Mr. Crossland, in his report on the Jewel Lake claims, confirms this, declaring "the geological evidence gives every reason to assume that other ore deposits may be found by further prospecting"; and in dealing with the veins already located he states: "Some telluride and free gold is present in finely disseminated crystals, the latter being indicative of high temperature, deep-seated mineralization."

The Dentonia is operating a 100-ton mill, and is employing a crew of sixty-five men. In addition to the recovery effected in milling at the plant, approximately fifty tons of concentrates are being shipped each week to Trail smelter. These concentrates are reported to be averaging $300 per ton. The underground work has opened up a new nine-foot vein carrying high-grade gold values. These are stated to be in the vicinity of $100 a ton. Already a large tonnage of ore has been blocked out in the Dentonia, which is favorably situated for economical milling.

TOWNSITE PLANNED

The planned development of the Jewel Lake company's claims on adjoining ground gives promise of the establishment of a large camp, and already a townsite is tentatively being considered.

The Jewel Lake holdings include the C.O.D., a property on which considerable work was done in the past in the way of sinking and exploration. Recent stripping and development work on this and other claims of the group have proved most satisfactory. Gold values have shown consistency, and in addition, other values occur in the ore bodies. Assays showing values ranging to $76.80 have been made.

Jewel Lake is uniquely situated, being only about eight miles from Greenwood by good auto road, and is served by the West Kootenay Power Company.

MANY ACTIVITIES

In the immediate vicinity of Greenwood the old Dynamo property is being developed by new enterprise, and is showing up well, with every promise of success. The Helen Mine, another old-time producer, is also being brought into active operation again. The Providence, one of the early-day gold properties of the district, is being unwatered and will soon be working a number of men.

On the Phoenix Hill several operations are under way, that of the Brooklyn-Stemwinder in particular attracting favorable attention.

In old Deadwood and Skylark Camps several old properties, which carried good gold values in association with copper in the days before the war, are being put into shape.

PLACER MINING

In the placer field there is a great deal of activity. Porter Bros., of Spokane, are operating in the canyon of Rock Creek with a steam shovel and will mine on a large scale.

The Yuba Consolidated Goldfields, of San Francisco, one of the big mining companies of California, is also entering the Rock Creek area in a big way. Engineers have reported on some thirteen miles of leases for them, and it is expected that as a result operations will commence this Summer.

The Lang interests, of Vancouver, which obtained good results on Kettle Creek last year, are operating a big steam shovel on their placer ground between Midway and Greenwood, with every promise of rich returns.

POLICE ARE LOOKING FOR LAUNCH LOOTERS

VANCOUVER, May 25 (CP). — Boat thieves who looted the cabins of two launches over the holiday and then turned the boats adrift, were being sought today by Vancouver police.

Robbers took the Serapis, owned by W. A. Skill, from the Kitsilano boathouse, and the boat was located several hours later, adrift off West Bay, West Vancouver. It was towed back by a police boat.

A launch owned by M. B. Archibald was found drifting at the foot of Cardero Street. It was returned to its moorings.

SCHOOL CADETS ARE INSPECTED

University School Corps Parades for Annual Review by Cadet Officer

The annual inspection of the University School Cadets was held yesterday afternoon by Capt. E. MacBrayne, chief cadet officer of Military District No. 11, who took charge in place of Major-General E. C. Ashton, general officer commanding the district.

The young men, who paraded in the regulation service khaki uniform with regulation rifles, made a fine showing in the various drills, with and without arms, and the field maneuvres, and were complimented by the inspecting officer at the conclusion of the official inspection.

Promptly at 3 o'clock the Cadet company was paraded onto the campus and was drawn up in review order for the general salute and march past. The bugle band of the corps paraded with the company. The inspection consisted of marching, formation and arms drill, and was witnessed by a number of the parents of the boys.

For the last six weeks the Cadets have been under the direction of Capt. H. H. Massey, formerly with the Royal Horse Artillery and with eighteen years' service in the Imperial Army. At the conclusion of the general inspection, Cadets were put through physical training by Instructor J. Grant.

CANADA BUYS HER QUOTA OF SILVER

Getting Its Allowance Under International Agreement, Minister of Finance Announces

OTTAWA, May 25 (CP). — The Dominion is proceeding to purchase the quota of silver assigned to this country under the international silver agreement, Hon. Edgar Rhodes, Minister of Finance, informed the House of Commons today, when questioned by Thomas Reid (Liberal, New Westminster).

"Is there an item in the estimates covering this purchase?" the minister was asked.

"The silver agreement was not ratified until after the estimates were brought down," Prime Minister R. B. Bennett interjected.

NO RESTRICTIONS ON JAPANESE IMPORTS

HONGKONG, May 25 (CP via Reuters).—The fact that Japan had expressed a desire for an exchange of ambassadors with Australia was confirmed today by J. G. Latham, Australian Minister of External Affairs, arriving here from Japan en route home after a trip through the Orient.

Mr. Latham declared himself satisfied that there was a great deal of exaggeration in talk of war-like designs of countries interested in the Far East. He made it plain that Australia has no intention, so far at least, of following the action of the United Kingdom in imposing trade restrictions on Japanese imports.

Freighters Take Lumber Loads for Overseas Points

The freighter Ullington Court left Ogden Point Piers last evening for Vancouver, after loading 750,000 feet of lumber for United Kingdom ports.

The Ashleigh will get away this afternoon for sea. She loaded 680,000 feet of lumber at the local assembly plant for the United Kingdom.

Taking 1,600,000 feet of lumber at Ogden Point, the Japanese freighter Gyokoh Maru will shift some time this evening to Chemainus, where she will complete loading for Australia.

BERRY CANNING IS CONSIDERED

Growers and Canners in Saanich Protest Mandatory Wage Orders

In a series of conferences with Hon. George S. Pearson and Provincial officials, this week, Island fruitgrowers' organizations have been assured of reconsideration of their status under the new minimum wage order affecting fruit and vegetable canneries, it was learned, yesterday.

The growers laid the facts of Saanich production before the authorities, and contended that the new order would add three-quarters of a cent per pound to the cost of handling berry products.

Delegations contended that the effect of the order to date was that white pickers, unprotected under the law, are all seeking work in the canneries, where a minimum rate of 27½ cents an hour and overtime is provided. The number of jobs in canneries is strictly limited. Meanwhile, Orientals are taking the places of white pickers in the field.

BEANS VERSUS BERRIES

Asked by one Provincial representative why they did not grow beans in place of berries, the growers replied that Saanich nights are too cold for that form of culture, and the area otherwise unsuitable. With many of the growers it has become a question of "berries or bust," they said. Imposition of higher rates and overtime allowances would prove insurmountable handicaps to some organizations, they stressed.

The delegations were assured that the Government would look into the matter, and would make representations to the Industrial Relations Board in the immediate future.

For many reasons the board is anxious to keep its initial order intact. Through a system of permits, the conditions under which small plants on the Island operate may be somewhat varied, it is unofficially believed.

VISITORS TO VICTORIA

On a business visit to Victoria, H. W. Mahler, district passenger agent for the Hamburg-America Line, with headquarters at Vancouver, arrived in Victoria yesterday afternoon, accompanied by Carl Franke, general agent for the associated German lines at Winnipeg.

The scene of this little yarn was an Indian up-country railway station where, amid the jostling crowd of Indians, an English official saw, to his regret, upon the platform a corporal and a private of a certain regiment somewhat the worse for liquor and inclined to be noisy. Close by on a bench, taking no notice whatever, sat two more men of the same regiment looking as quiet and respectable as it was possible for men to be.

"Can't you get hold of those noisy comrades of yours, and keep them quiet?" asked the official; and the reply was: "Very sorry, sir, but we can't do nothing."

"But it will bring discredit on the regiment," he persisted, "why can't you do anything?"

Then came the amazing answer: "Beg pardon, sir, but yer see, it's like this. We're two loonatics, and them's the escort!"

MOST MONEY IN SHANGHAI

Dollars Pour Into Banks of Foreign Settlement for Safety

SHANGHAI, May 25 (CP).—Although the city of Shanghai, with its 3,500,000 people, holds less than 1 per cent of the total population of China, fully one-fifth of the country's wealth is invested in property of foreign-controlled areas here, or lying idle in bank vaults safe in the International Settlement or in the French concession.

This conclusion was reached after an inquiry undertaken by a group of Chinese-owned banks here. The flow of capital and of silver money to Shanghai continues phenomenal. Shanghai now boasts tall and costly buildings and building continues amazingly. Vaults in foreign and Chinese banks in Shanghai bulge with hundreds of millions of silver dollars for which no investments can be found.

The Central China Daily News, an influential Chinese language newspaper published here, cites the fact that last month Chinese banks in Shanghai received from interior cities silver dollars to a total of $1,427,400, but shipped to interior points only $276,800. The reasons for this long-continued unhealthy concentration of wealth are described by this newspaper as follows:

VARIOUS REASONS

1. Because of under-development of home industries, the interior towns and villages send all their money to Shanghai to purchase commodities, mostly imported.

2. Banditry in the interior has scared the rich into sending or bringing all their wealth to Shanghai.

3. Illegal taxation has bankrupt the farmers.

4. Banditry and taxation have deterred the rich from investing their money in farms, or from loaning money to peasants.

5. The persistent refusal of banks in Shanghai to invest or loan money in the interior.

NO MARKET FOR FOREIGN WHEAT

France Now Self-Supporting and No Longer Buying From Abroad

PARIS, May 25 (CP).—A French wheat expert, today, told the Canadian Press that countries such as Canada and Argentina should give up all hope of resuming wheat exports to France, and added that this nation has left the ranks of wheat importers to join those of exporters.

This authority's remarks were prompted by closing today of the huge flour mills at Corbeil, the greatest in France, and numerous others throughout the country. Decision of the mill owners to close was said to have brought to a head a French wheat problem having a two-fold significance.

On the other hand, it was said, any steps taken to deal with the French wheat situation must have international repercussions, and on the other, must also raise the vital problem of differences between the internal and the world price levels.

TWO POSSIBLE LINES

This was taken to mean either devaluation of the franc or ever-increasing tariffs and stricter quotas.

Since stabilization of the franc the internal level of wheat has remained at about the 1927 level, because as the world price level sank, French producers were protected by an increase in the tariff designed to keep foreign competitors off the domestic market.

The wheat tariff was increased from 35 francs (currently $2.30) for each 200 pounds to 80 francs ($4.47) for the same amount, or about $1.34 a bushel.

Despite the fact that at this level the tariff was almost twice as much as the price of the world market, foreign wheat sold in France at cheaper prices than the domestic product.

TARIFF NO PROTECTION

Meanwhile, the protection induced farmers to sow a constantly-increasing acreage until the tariff barrier was no longer a protection and domestic prices fell.

The average consumption of wheat in France is 93,000,000 quintals (341,000,000 bushels) a year, and the 1934 crop carryover is estimated by reliable authorities at 65,000,000 quintals (238,333,326 bushels).

The law passed in July, 1933, fixing a minimum domestic wheat price of 115 francs a quintal ($2.07 a bushel) has been evaded on a gigantic scale. All millers who observed it lost money hand-over-fist, and farmers found greater difficulty in selling their wheat as grain merchants turned to rye, barley and other coarse grains.

A good potato crop combined with British duties and a Belgium embargo has led to an enormous increase in French consumption of potatoes. All mills now closed have enormous stocks of flour, so that the farmer will have great difficulty in selling the 1934 crop, which promises to be a bumper one.

HEAR STORY OF INDIAN CREDIT

C. H. French Tells Local Association on Early Methods Practised in B.C.

An interesting insight into early credit granting to Indians of British Columbia tribes was contained in an address given in Spencer's dining-room yesterday, by Charles H. French, president of the Rotary Club, to the Victoria Credit Grantors' Association.

Mr. French explained that possibly the first credit extension to Indians was made by the Hudson's Bay Company. Factors at posts would contact the ruling chief of the tribes nearest him and would arrange through the chief to collect money owing to the company from his tribesmen.

"We would give them trinkets, and, naturally, a 'rake-off,' and they would undertake to see all accounts were paid," stated Mr. French.

DIRECT CREDIT

However, he continued, after this policy had been in effect some time, it was found that a large number of the Indians failed to pay. Therefore, it became necessary for the trader to deal directly with individual Indians instead of just the chief, as formerly.

Eventually, Mr. French declared, the policy became similar to that of a credit bureau, with reports on the credit status of each Indian discussed between storekeepers at the posts.

He pointed out that it was impossible to sue Indians for back debts, because they are a Dominion Government charge. Included in his talk were a number of stories of his own experiences among the Indians of Canada and particularly of British Columbia.

It was announced that L. A. Grogan will speak next Friday.

WESTERN GRAIN RECUPERATING

More Optimism in Many Districts Where Apprehension Felt Before

WINNIPEG, May 25. — Weather in the Western grain-growing areas has varied from snow and frost to extreme heat with high winds, showers and heavy rains. The week has again shown the exceptional power of recuperation which Western crops can muster, as many districts which were apprehensive of the outcome a week ago are more optimistic today. Grasshopper hatching is uneven. Some districts within the infected area report hatching commencing, while others report no signs so far, according to the weekly crop report of the agricultural department, Canadian National Railways.

Southern Manitoba received good showers at the beginning of the week and every district reports an improved outlook. In Northern Manitoba districts cool weather with snowfall followed by rain has put a stop to soil drifting.

In Southern Saskatchewan the weather has been cool, with some high winds and a few scattered showers. Soil drifting has caused damage to crops already up. Grasshoppers are hatching out and poison bait is already being distributed. In Central Saskatchewan conditions are reported as better than at this time last year. Along the Prince Albert division, growth is good and early-sown grains are well advanced.

In the southern central district of Alberta grains are responding quickly to the recent favorable weather. Grasshoppers are hatching fast and control measures are being employed. North Central Alberta reports mild weather with heavy rains and moisture conditions at most points are satisfactory. From the Peace River comes a report that all seeding is practically completed, wheat growing well, and weather is fine with scattered showers.

STABLEMATES MEET TODAY

Cavalcade and High Quest Will Race in Withers Mile at Belmont Track

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP).—In an attempt to settle their family arguments as to which is the faster horse, Cavalcade, winner of the Kentucky Derby, and High Quest, victor in the preakness, resume their feud at Belmont Park, tomorrow, in the fifty-ninth running of the Withers Mile.

The two stars from Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Brookmeade Stable, and eight other speedy colts of the same age were named today for the $22,000 test. The winner will receive in excess of $13,000 if the ten nominees face the barrier.

Calvalcade and High Quest have met twice in their climb to stardom and each time the Preakness winner had his nose in front at the end of the race. The first time was as two-year-olds. The other was in the Preakness where High Quest set all the pace to nose out his famous stablemate, which a week before had thundered to victory in the Derby.

The Brookmeade pair probably will go to the post the choice at 9 to 5.

FAVORITES WIN IN FRENCH MEET

Crawford, Perry, Austin and Hughes Advance to Last Sixteen—Miss Cruickshank Loses

PARIS, May 25 (AP).—Two more Americans fell before stinging foreign recquets today in the third day of the French hard court tennis championships.

Josephine Cruickshank, fifth ranking American player, was put out in the second round by Joan Migan, the Australian woman champion, 1-6, 7-5, 6-3.

Wilmer Hines, former North Carolina collegian, was defeated by Max Elimer, Swiss Davis Cup player in the third round of men's singles, 8-10, 6-4, 6-0, 5-7, 6-3.

Both Americans seemed on their way to victory when their games deserted them, Miss Cruickshank, especially, appeared to have the measure of Miss Hartigan as she led, 6-1, 5-3, but she hit a streak of wildness from which she failed to recover in time. Hines was alternately brilliant and uncertain and Elimer's steadiness prevailed.

Uncle Sam still has strong competitors in women's singles, however, in Helen Jacobs, the American champion, Carolin Babcock, Sarah Palfrey and Dorothy Andrus.

CRAWFORD ADVANCES

A fine field also remains in the last sixteen among the men, including Jack Crawford, the Australian, defending champion; Fred Perry and H. W. (Bunny) Austin, England's cup aces; G. P. Hughes, another leading Englishman; L. Hecht, Czechoslovakia; Elimer and Baron Gotifried von Cramm, Germany's fine young recquet wielder.

HURT IN CRUSHER AT DUNWELL MILL

Henry Rochfort, Formerly of Victoria, Suffers Hand Lacerations at Stewart

When he became entangled in a crusher in the Dunwell mill at Stewart, B.C., recently, Henry Rochfort, formerly of Victoria, suffered a severe laceration to one of his hands, according to a report received here, yesterday.

Advices say that had it not been for the quick action of fellow-workers in instantly shutting off the power in the mill when Mr. Rochfort screamed, the man would have lost his life.

Mr. Rochfort was educated in Victoria, and later was in the financial and brokerage business here. Moving north shortly after the Great War, he subsequently became associated with the Dunwell company.

PARACHUTE JUMPER DAZED FROM SHOCK

EDMONTON, May 25 (CP).—H. L. White, city parachute jumper, narrowly escaped death or injury, yesterday, at a city air show, when his parachute opened at 2,000 feet after a drop from 5,000 feet, ripped badly, sent tatters flying into the wind, and landed the jumper at a speed of about thirty-five miles an hour.

He was dazed from the shock of the hard landing. He said the chute was ripping all the way down and if he had pulled the cord at 5,000 feet, it would not have held together for that drop.

McKenzie Avenue School Captures Saanich Sports

Wins Grand Aggregate With Total of Thirty-Six Points—Tillicum Finishes Second and Cloverdale Third—Stevenson Takes Sprint

Undaunted by the slippery grounds and overhanging clouds, athletes of McKenzie Avenue School scored thirty-six points to win the Grand Aggregate Cup in the Saanich school sports staged yesterday at Hampton Road. Tillicum registered thirty-three points, while Cloverdale with thirteen was third.

Although the day opened drearily with a smattering of rain, officials decided to go on with the meet. Towards the end of the afternoon the weather broke somewhat and the 400 persons in attendance enjoyed themselves to the utmost.

OFFICIALS IN CONTEST

The feature event of the day was one that was not found on the official programme. It was a tug-of-war between representatives of Victoria City Council and Saanich officials. The losers bought ice cream for the winners of the tug-of-war shield. Aldermen John A. Worthington, Dr. J. D. Hunter and P. R. Brown and John Baxter upheld the city's honor, while C. Farrant, Ken Cummings, Frank Tupman and F. G. Aldous represented Saanich. The Victoria team lost.

The Duggan Cup, for the best 100-yard sprint, went to Bill Stevenson, of Royal Oak School, while girls from Cloverdale and boys from McKenzie Avenue won the relay race prizes. The tug-of-war shield, won only after an elimination series, was taken by McKenzie Avenue.

COMPLETE TOTALS

Craigflower registered 5 points; Gordon Head, 8; Tolmie, 14; Royal Oak, 10; Cloverdale, 16; Strawberry Vale, 10; Tillicum, 33; Cedar Hill, 12, and McKenzie Avenue, 36.

Viv Shoemaker, of the Y.M.C.A., acted as official starter. The committee is to be congratulated on the excellent manner in which the sports were presented. Trophies were presented by Trustees William Tomes and Trustee Aldous.

parents having come from Barra, Scotland, and Kilkenny, Ireland. He was born at Hillsborough, November 23, 1851, and was educated at St. Francis Xavier's, Antigonish; College of Propaganda, Rome, and at the University of Marseilles. From the Propaganda College he received the degrees of Doctor of Philosophy and Divinity, the latter in 1879, the same year in which he was ordained. He was ordained to the priesthood in the Basilica of St. John Latern, by the late Cardinal Patrizzi.

JOINS TEACHING STAFF

Dr. McNeil joined the teaching staff of St. Francis Xavier's College, Antigonish, Nova Scotia, in 1880, as vice-rector, and became rector of the institution in 1884, a post which he continued to hold until 1891. During this period he was also the editor of "Aurora," a weekly newspaper. In 1891 he became pastor of West Arichat, and subsequently at Descouse; and in 1895 he was elevated to the episcopacy, being consecrated at St. Ninian's Cathedral, Antigonish, Bishop of Nicopolis and Vicar-Apostolic of St. George's, on the west coast of Newfoundland, a position he occupied from 1896 until 1904, becoming Bishop of St. George's in the latter year. In 1910 he was appointed Archbishop of Vancouver, where for two years he labored indefatigably and with great success within the confines of Vancouver, and through the almost impassable interior of the Rockies. In church and school building, the opening up of educational facilities, providing for the poor and needy, and devising means for aiding the immigrants he gave an insight into the ability, zeal and solicitude which endeared him to the people of Vancouver.

The excellent achievements of His Grace did not escape notice, and on April 10, 1912, he was transferred to the important See of Toronto, made vacant by the death of the Most Rev. Fergus Patrick McEvay.

GREATLY ADMIRED

Those whose privilege it was to know and to have been associated with the Archbishop in the capital of Ontario, even those of other creeds, from time to time, stood in admiration at the wonderful qualities of mind and heart of Archbishop McNeil. His accomplishments in Vancouver were but the shadow of his future success in the Archdiocese of Toronto.

More than thirty new churches were built under his administration, and many beautiful schools and institutions, both of learning and for the needs of the sick and distressed, came into existence. St. Augustine's Seminary, the magnificent gift of the late Eugene O'Keefe, developed under his direction, until it now holds a foremost place among the seminaries of the North American Continent. The Sisters of Service, today a country-wide organization, caring for the spiritual and temporal interests of new Canadian girls, is but another product of his fatherly heart. The Catholic Welfare Bureau owes its existence and well-organized system to that ingenuity and foresight for which His Grace was widely known.

ABLE AND ENERGETIC

Tireless devotion to the cause to which he dedicated his life characterized the career of Archbishop McNeil. Before going to Toronto he had held many charges in the service of his church, and brought to every duty that boundless energy and ability which in secular pursuits would dobutless have placed him high on the ladder of success. His work was done quietly and without blare of trumpets. Apart from the arduous duties of shepherding his large flock in the Archdiocese of Toronto, his great sympathy overflowed to embrace every good work that sought to alleviate the ills of humanity or raise the moral and social life of the city, the province and the Dominion to a higher and purer standard.

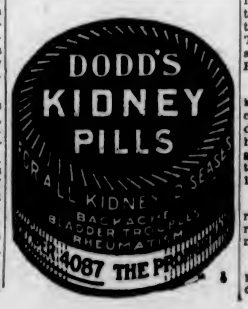

Mrs. Fred Honey Passes Away at California Home

Mrs. Davida Honey, aged forty-eight years, wife of Fred G. Honey, and a former resident of Victoria, passed away suddenly, this week, at the family residence in Redlands, California. The funeral was held Wednesday, and interment was made in Hillside Cemetery, Redlands.

From 1910 until 1922, Mr. and Mrs. Honey were residents of this city. Mr. Honey was, during those years, sales manager for H. A. Davie Limited. Before her marriage, which took place in Victoria, Mrs. Honey was Miss Davida Stafford. Besides her husband, she is survived by one son, Gerald, at home, and three sisters at St. Mary's, Ontario. She was a native of St. Mary's.

During her residence here, Mrs. Honey had a wide circle of friends, and word of her death will come as a distinct shock to many.

that would have taken a month, stated Mr. Found.

There was the further difficulty that the treaty provided Canada should receive 15 per cent in number and value, and to decide the 15 per cent in value of the raw furs on the islands would not be a simple job for anybody. So, with the markets in St. Louis being highly attractive and the United States having to send a vessel to the northern islands in any event, owing to its responsibility for the maintenance of the natives, it was decided in 1921 it would be better to arrange with the United States to sell the Dominion's share with theirs and to account to Canada for 15 per cent of the net proceeds.

This temporary arrangement was subject to cancellation at any time. A former Canadian minister of outstanding business ability had recognized this was the more beneficial policy for the Dominion, said the deputy. Japan had done likewise. The arrangement made eighteen months ago was to market Canada's percentage in London.

SUPPORTS TREATY

Maintenance of the pelagic treaty as the best means of conservation of the Pacific seal herd was urged by W. F. C. Devlin, another Ottawa furrier. A return to coastal or pelagic sealing would bring about the rapid destruction of the herd, stated Mr. Devlin.

"As to the wisdom or otherwise of marketing through St. Louis," he said, "I think there are many things pro and con. As the treaty has worked out, no doubt there have been advantages and disadvantages in marketing through St. Louis." The marketing was now being done through London.

The committee will meet again next week.

Interment was made in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery, with the following as pallbearers: R. Foster, F. Greensides, R. Pearson, R. J. Melville, J. McMartin, and F. Smith.

What Today Means

"GEMINI"

If May 26 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 1 to 9 a.m., 1 to 3 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. The danger periods are from 10 a.m. until noon, from 4 to 6 p.m. and from 6 to 11 p.m.

This May 26 will prove a very unsatisfactory day for business engagements but a delightful one for social entertainment. There will be more money spent than earned, so the wise will watch their expenditures. You probably will be surprised by receiving either a visit or telephone message from one you hold in highest regard, and this will later on lead to an invitation. Accept any invitation extended, for it will prove delightful. Hearts will be susceptible to love's sweet refrain, and more than one engagement will result from this day's woolings. This is a bad day to engage in religious or political controversies, or giving public expression of adverse personal opinions.

If you are a woman and May 26 is your birthday, this will prove a very delightful one, so make up your mind to enjoy every minute of it. One person may, quite unintentionally, give occasion for justifiable irritation, but overlook it and do not allow it to ruffle your good humor. Having quite a definite line of thought, almost unique in its originality, it will be a mistake to try and force it upon others or take umbrage if they disagree with your views. You will be happiest in a home of your own and married. Your capability, however, will enable you to be successful in any line of business undertaken.

The child born on May 26, as it grows up, will be inclined to be self-opinionated. This must not be allowed. Conceit is bad enough in a grown person, but it is insufferable in the very young. Having a loving disposition, a more than pleasing personality, and a high degree of intelligence, there will be no difficulty in starting this youngster off on the right track. A professional career may be advisable, if the child proves to be studious and deeply interested in one of the professional lines.

If a man and your natal day is May 26, there has been, and still is, only one stumbling block in your road to success. This obstacle can be easily removed by yourself. Your great hindrance is an exalted faith in your own opinion, and a disinclination to even treat with tolerance other people's opinions. An exchange of ideas is always helpful. A small boy may have a mighty practical one to offer, if listened to. Open your mind to other people's suggestions, and your progress will be rapid. Indications are you will acquire money. May 26 is not an auspicious day on which to start new deals or negotiations.

WHAT'S DOING ON THE LOCAL RETAIL PRODUCE MARKET

Fruit dealers and shoppers welcomed the arrival of a shipment of Oregon Bing cherries in the city, yesterday. Of excellent quality, the fruit is of a deep red color, and is selling at prices between 30c and 35c a pound.

With wholesalers looking for an increase in production of local strawberries, it is expected the price of berries will be lower by Monday.

Local green peas are finding a good market and are selling at 10c a pound or three pounds for 25c.

With a decrease in price from three pounds for 25c to six pounds for 25c, local new potatoes are moving quickly.

A $1,000 Period Grand $495

Neither in outward appearance or in brilliance of tone could you tell that this is not a new piano. It is an apartment-size grand in rich mahogany case. The period design is particularly beautiful, and there is a piano bench to match. At this price it is a great bargain, and your upright piano will be taken as part payment.

RACE TRACK IS BEING PLANNED

B.C. Automotive Sports Association Will Hold Rally on June 17

Establishment of a race track for motor cars and motorcycles in Victoria by one of the large oil companies loomed as a possibility at last night's meeting of the British Columbia Automotive Sports Association, held at the Crystal Garden.

L. V. Michelin, secretary-treasurer, explained that establishment of a race track here by an oil company, he understood, was dependent upon the size of the membership of the club attained. A committee is working on plans for a race track, and also searching for a suitable site.

J. R. C. Smith, president, submitted a report on an automobile rally to be held on June 17. Prior to the rally, the club will hold a safety drive in co-operation with the city and Provincial police. Marks also will be given the best appearing car. The run would be blind, he said, explaining that the destination would not be generally known to the membership. No speeding would be allowed, and markers would be placed at different points on the route to check the members as to whether they speed their cars. A hill climb and general reliability test also will be held in conjunction with this even.

Plans for an automobile race in Nanaimo on June 4, and another in Victoria on July 2 also were discussed.

CONSIDER AFFILIATION

Steps were taken to consider the advisability of merging with the Victoria Automobile Club, or becoming affiliated with this organization. Members of the Victoria Automobile Club were present and suggested that progress could be made of a committee from each organization were appointed to discuss details. This suggestion was adopted by the meeting.

It was explained that, while the club was formed to encourage safety in driving and develop skill, races would be held so that speeding could be done on the track instead of on the streets.

Several of the members have entered the races to be held in Nanaimo, while the club will appoint a safety committee to officiate at the race to be held at the Willows track on July 2.

The aims and objects of the club are to increase the skill and reliability of the average motorist by carrying out reliability trials and road tests, hill climbing and other events.

Chief of Police Thomas Heatley, when told of the club's formation, congratulated the officials upon the aims and objects of the club, and assured them that he would co-operate in every way, even to the extent of holding another safety campaign under the club's auspices with police co-operation.

an important event towards world peace, he added.

The Foreign Minister indicated forthcoming visits to Rumania and Jugoslavia, and referred to meeting Tewfik Rushdi Bey, Turkish Foreign Minister, tomorrow.

After restating the traditional French policy that disarmament must be based on security, and that France never would permit Germany to rearm in violation of existing treaties, the Foreign Minister declared a solution of the impasse was not impossible at the forthcoming meeting of the Disarmament Conference.

DOOR IS NOT CLOSED

"I have promised my support to Arthur Henderson, president of the conference, and the door is not closed," he declared.

Discussing the dispute between Germany and the League of Nations Council regarding guarantees against reprisals for the voters in the Saar plebiscite next year, he declared:

"Germany refused to subscribe to the conditions of guarantees to be fixed by the League Council, and feared a renewal of the Versailles Treaty," he said. "Out of respect for the freedom of the voters, I refuse to deliver the inhabitants of the Saar to reprisals."

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

BIDDING FOUR-CARD MAJORS

Some bridge players regard the bidding of a four-card major suit as almost a major crime. Of course, all good players realize the fact that in many situations the bid of a suit at the range of two-odd or more is generally assumed to indicate a five-card or greater length. However, there are numerous situations in which a four-card length in either a major or minor suit should be shown at the range of two in preference to a no trump call. In no trump only aces and kings are stoppers of the adverse suits, while at a trump declaration there is the additional trump barrier which the defence ordinarily cannot surmount.

An example of extremely bad bidding, which resulted in reaching an unmakable game contract in no trump rather than a making game contract in spades, occurred in a rubber game recently. The hand was:

North, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ A 7 3 3 ♡ K Q 10 9 6 ◇ A 3 ♣ 7
♠ K Q J 6 ♡ A J 7 5 ◇ K ♣ J 8 6 5	N W E S	♠ 10 8 5 4 ♡ — ◇ Q J 7 3 ♣ A K 10 3 2
	♠ 9 ♡ 8 4 3 2 ◇ 10 9 6 5 4 ♣ Q 9 4

The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

North	East	South	West
1♡	3♣(1)	Pass	3NT(2)
Pass(3)	3♠(4)	Pass	3NT(5)
Dbl.	Pass	Pass	Pass(6)

1.—It is a close question whether East with his distribution should not double for a takeout rather than bid his suit. However, the vulnerable overcall of two clubs shows a fairly strong hand.

2. Possibly this call is correct here. West feels that he must show his double stopper in the adversely bid suit.

3. Of course North passes. With two sure re-entries he has hope of defeating the adverse game contract.

4. Inasmuch as East is void of hearts, he is unwilling to risk play at no trump—hence the effort to get any bid from his partner.

5. West at this point would risk nothing whatever by bidding three spades. Obviously, he has already determined to play the hand at a game contract, and the bid of three spades would certainly elicit another response from his partner.

At this point West fears to show his spade suit. After all, he has a fit with his partner's suit and two stoppers in hearts if North attempts to establish that suit.

In the play North opened the heart king, and West refused to win the first trick. However, North continued the suit, and West won and then sought to establish the clubs. South won the club trick and returned another heart, which established two more heart tricks for his partner. In consequence, a penalty of 500 points was suffered by West in lieu of bidding and making a game in spades.

TOMORROW'S HAND

Neither side vulnerable.

Oxford Group Vanguard Arrives for Campaign

International Traveling Team Will Divide Here to Conduct Meetings in Portland, Seattle, Vancouver and Victoria—Bring "Press Gang"

The "shock troops" of the Oxford Group Movement team, which has been touring Canada and the United States, invaded the city yesterday to conduct preliminary skirmishes before the leader and founder, Dr. Frank Buchman, and other outstanding members of the team arrive from the Mainland today.

A "press gang" was brought with the team yesterday, its representative being Robert T. Bowman, son of C. A. Bowman, editor of The Ottawa Citizen.

Speaking on behalf of other members of the team, who were busily engaged getting settled in their rooms at the Empress Hotel, Mr. Bowman said, "we had a great response last year; but this year it has been terrific. Everywhere we have gone we have found great support. Heads of Governments, municipal dignitaries and the church have all endorsed the movement. They say it is doing more to restore confidence among the people than any other force."

PARTY PERSONNEL

Among those who arrived yesterday were: Ferde Laune, of Germany, well known on the continent as an outstanding tenor over the radio and on the concert stage; Mrs. J. A. Wilson, a past president of the National Council of Women, who has been a visitor to Victoria before; Cleveland Hicks, of Harvard University; Bernard Bourdillon, former secretary of the Royal Institute of International Affairs, London, England; David Graham, of Oxford, and a champion debater; Madam Bieublen, member of a noted French-Canadian family, her uncle being a member of the Senate; Hanford Twitchell, prominent New York real estate man; Donald Ross, of Toronto, son of the former Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario; Robert T. Bowman, son of the editor of The Ottawa Citizen; George Wood, of Aberdeen; Eric Bentley, of Toronto; Mrs. Charles Douglas, of Ottawa; Mrs. Janet Binns, noted social welfare worker and exponent of women's suffrage in England; Miss Mary Gaddy, of Scotland; Miss Mary Wilson, of Oxford; Roland Wilson, of Oxford; Lawson Wood, of Aberdeen, and Miss Audrey Haigh, of London.

Others due here today, in addition to Dr. Buchman, include Hon. Carl Vrooman, who was assistant secretary of agriculture in the Woodrow Wilson Government in the United States; George Light, a member of the British Labor party, and Lady Richmond.

There are 100 members in the team as compared with forty last year. The number of groupers has increased so tremendously, and the interest in the movement has widened so intensely that it was found that a much bigger team was necessary to comply with the many requests.

TO DIVIDE TEAM

The team will divide itself at Victoria, some going to Portland, others to Seattle and still others to Vancouver. Culminating the transcontinental tour will be an international house party to be held at Banff from June 5 to 12. Nearly 1,000 persons already have signified their intention of taking part in the house party. The Canadian Pacific Railway is co-operating in every way, having opened the hotel specially for the event.

Members of the team, who arrived here yesterday, came direct from Calgary, where some wonderful meetings were held. They were greeted here by local team leaders and clergymen.

"Everywhere there have been vast audiences to address. The people seem to want to change their lives. It is a wonderful experience," Mr. Bowman stated.

VAST CROWDS

In Toronto, members of the team spoke to crowds totaling 35,000, Mr. Bowman said, explaining the terrific interest that is being taken in the movement. "In Ottawa, during our campaign there, we spoke to nearly 50,000 persons. One meeting a night is not enough to satisfy the people's desire to share. Four and five meetings have to be held. I think this is tremendously encouraging. Premiers of the various Provincial Governments are behind the movements, and Premier Bennett, at a luncheon he gave to the visiting team, said the Oxford Group Movement was doing much to restore confidence among the people," the grouper asserted.

The trans-continental tour started in Halifax. Since leaving there the team has conducted campaigns in Saint John, Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Sherbrooke, Toronto, Winnipeg, Port Arthur, Saskatoon, Regina, Edmonton and Calgary.

They also spoke to huge meetings in New York, Washington and Philadelphia. The team worked hard through the State of Pennsylvania, where the movement really commenced. This was where Mr. Buchman was born, and where he first carried on his work.

Shower Is Given For Bride-to-Be

SIDNEY, May 25.—Miss Edith Whiting, whose marriage to Mr. Ralph Moore will take place tomorrow, was given a surprise party on Thursday. The self-invited guests, who included many old family friends, arrived at the Whiting residence at 8:30 o'clock in the evening. Singing, contests and games provided much amusement. When the merriment was at its height, a knock was heard at the door, and two washerwomen, in typical costume, were admitted, carrying a covered clothes basket. This they brought to Miss Whiting, instructing her to examine its contents. When the covering was removed, many parcels, on top of which was a bridal bouquet of roses, were revealed.

The basket contained a miscellaneous collection of gifts. Among these was one containing canned goods for the groom-to-be. Miss Whiting fittingly expressed her thanks in a few words. Refreshments were served from a table centred with roses.

Miss Rhodes Married to Mr. J. Dovey

An interesting wedding was solemnized in St. John's Church, Shaughnessy, Vancouver, yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when Rev. W. T. Keeling performed the marriage rites for Miss Ethel Rhodes, R.N., a popular graduate of the Provincial Jubilee Hospital, elder daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Rhodes, Victoria, and Mr. John Thomas Dovey, manager of the Associated Industries, Seattle, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Dovey, Philadelphia, Pa.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. R. C. Janion, wore a smart ensemble suit of grey with blue accessories, and a corsage bouquet of gardenias and lily of the valley, and was attended by Miss Orvilla Hibbard, of Seattle, in a chic yellow redingote suit, who wore a corsage bouquet of talisman roses. Mr. Tindolph, of Seattle, was best man. For the occasion, friends of the bride had decorated the church with early Summer flowers with charming effect. The church organist played the wedding marches on the arrival and departure of the bridal couple, and as the register was being signed, played suitable incidental music.

RECEPTION HELD

After the service a small reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Janion, 1457 Twenty-Sixth Avenue West, which was attended by old family friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Dovey left at midnight for Vancouver Island, where the honeymoon will be spent, after which they will make their home in Seattle.

This afternoon Mrs. C. J. V. Spratt, Lotbiniere Avenue, will be hostess at a tea party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Dovey, when about twenty old friends of the bride will be her guests.

Cowichan Health Centre Is Doing Much Good Work

DUNCAN, May 25.—The general committee of Cowichan Health Centre held their quarterly meeting at the centre, with a good attendance of members. Mrs. Moss, O.B.E., presided, and welcomed the new members. Silent tribute was paid to the memory of the late Mrs. F. A. Brettingham, who was, for many years, a member of the committee. The constitution was amended, changing the representation of members on the executive committee from the city of Duncan from four to five.

A donation of $10 for the social service fund from Mr. Hugh Savage, M.P.P., was received. Miss F. Young, of the nursing staff, is again on duty, after three weeks' illness. Miss B. Jenkins, nursing supervisor, reported work having started in the dental clinic. Miss M. Gray, assistant professor of nursing, University of British Columbia, who visited the district in April, expressed approval of the work being done by Cowichan Health Centre, congratulating both nursing staff and committee.

Three relay teams will be taken to Langford on June 13 to compete for the Department of Health Cup, at the Esquimalt rural nursing service annual health day.

Chatterer's Saucy Tongue Gets Him Into Trouble

—By THORNTON W. BURGESS—

Ordinarily Billy Mink is good-natured, but when he does lose his temper it is a serious matter. For some time he paid no attention to the impudence of Chatterer the Red Squirrel. He went on about his business quite as if Chatterer was nowhere about. But after a while he began to lose patience. In the first place, there was no use trying to hunt with Chatterer's noisy tongue warning everybody.

Chatterer, on his part, grew saucier and bolder. He would run half way down the trunk of a tree until he was only a few feet above Billy and scold as only Chatterer can scold. Occasionally when Billy was ahead of him Chatterer would come down and race across the ground to another tree. He was so intent on making life miserable for Billy Mink that he failed to pay attention to where he was going, and so it came about that finally he ran up a tree that grew apart from other trees.

Now, though Billy Mink had appeared to be paying no attention to Chatterer he had been watching him carefully all the time, and in the instant Chatterer ran up that line tree Billy Mink turned and darted to the foot of it. "Now," said he, "I'll teach you a lesson you red mischief-maker!" It was clear that he had quite lost his temper. "I have you now where I want you, and I can't think of any better breakfast than red squirrel." With this Billy Mink started to climb the tree.

There was a sudden silence in the Green Forest. Chatterer had discovered his carelessness, and sudden and great fear silenced his tongue. Frantically he hunted for a hole in that tree, a hole big enough for him to enter, but too small for Billy Mink. There was none. Then he raced madly clear to the top of the tree. He looked down and saw Billy coming up.

Chatterer on his part grew saucier and bolder

Chatterer quite lost his head. He came down to some of the longer branches and ran out to the tip of one of them, hoping to be able to jump to another tree. But the distance was too great and Chatterer jumped over to another branch. He found himself no better off there, and raced about frantically, jumping from branch to branch. Then as Billy Mink drew nearer Chatterer went higher until he was quite at the top of the tree once more.

He was trapped. That was all there was to it; he was trapped. His carelessness had brought him into the worst kind of trouble.

SIDNEY, May 25.—Plans, as made for Sidney's 24th of May celebration, were carried out despite a slight shower, which was soon over. Numerous entries in the school children's parade made judging difficult. Many beautiful, comic and original ideas were presented. PARIS STYLES

By MARY KNIGHT
United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS (UP).—Princess Dilkusha de Rohan is a woman with clever ideas. She also is a woman with lastex leanings. She uses this fabric in so many delightful and practical ways you don't believe it even when you see it yourself. It just doesn't seem possible.

Her lastex bathing suits simply are marvelous. One has a strap that works two ways; you can either fasten it at the right shoulder in front and the left shoulder at the back, or bring it around the neck in a loop and fasten it in front with both ends.

One of her sleeveless bathing capes is cut on the same lines as an evening cape and has a bright initial in one corner matching the one on the trunks of the suit it goes with.

A pair of string sandals are amusing with a narrow strip of red leather run in and out of the straps at the toe so that it looks like tinted toenails. This lastex business has one particular virtue for bathing outfits, in that it dries as you emerge from the water—and it stretches both way simultaneously.

"Beach wear," says this dressmaker, "must be practical and simple primarily to be smart." And may we add in a spirt of true approval, that they are definitely practical and if they were any simpler—well, they just wouldn't exist, that's all!

TODAY'S FASHION TIP

Lastex bath and beach suits are brief but beautiful

Gladys Glad On Beauty

The charming Dolores Del Rio, whose creamy skin contrasts so beautifully with her dark eyes and dusky hair, is acquiring a number of those new "coolie" hats to use while at the beach this Summer. Dolores has decided to protect her face as much as possible from the sun's rays this season. And when she wishes to look healthily suntanned, she intends to use a suntan make-up.

Personally, I think that for some folks, that's a pretty good idea. As I told you the other day, there are some girls who just won't tan becomingly. They either acquire a crop of dark freckles, or become red and blistery when exposed to the sun.

Of course, when the fad for suntans first began a few years ago, suntan cosmetics were pretty awful. They were more inclined to make a girl look jaundiced than healthily tanned. But since that time, there has been a vast improvement in make-up.

Suntan make-up really is a boon for the girl who desires to appear a golden-brown hue, yet who cannot acquire an attractive tan naturally. However, moderation is most important in the application of such make-up. Don't try to make yourself look too dark, else the artificiality of your tan will become immediately apparent. At present, there are three forms of suntan make-up—the liquid, the powder and the cream. And you'll have to experiment to discover which appears most natural and becoming on your own particular skin.

In applying a suntan make-up, the first thing is to cleanse your face well. Then apply a suntan powder base of as dark a hue as you wish your skin to appear. Over this pat a layer of a light-toned powder to absorb any moisture, so that when you apply your suntan powder it will not gather in brown spots.

Next, blend a bit of rouge—reddish with orangey tones, on each cheek, like the natural flush on a suntanned face, and tint your lips with lipstick of a harmonious hue. After this, apply your suntan powder, and smooth it evenly over your face so that it doesn't seem blotchy or darker in spots. A bit of brown eye shadow on each lid, a bit of brown mascara on the lashes and, presto!—you're suntanned.

Oualicum Beach

Miss Eileen Money, of Victoria, is the guest of Miss Mary Money for a short time.

Mrs. J. Dobbin and Miss Marianne Dobbin have left to spend a holiday in San Francisco.

Mr. J. Bankes, of Victoria, has arrived here and will be on the office staff at the Qualicum Beach Hotel for the Summer months.

"I wish you hadn't made me dress up," said hubby, as they were speeding to the theatre in the taxi.

"Nonsense, dear," she replied, "you look splendid in your evening dress."

"Still, all the same, I wish I hadn't," he returned.

"Well, I never saw such a man," she said sharply.

"Anyway, I think we ought to turn back home," he went on.

"Don't be stupid, we're late already," she snapped.

"All the same—" he began.

"What is the trouble, Henry?" she barked.

"I've just remembered that I've left the tickets in my brown suit," he replied.

SAVE THE PIECES

By HANNAH

You will just have to rustle yourself some taffeta this season. You may go in for taffeta in a large way or a small one, but you can hardly escape it. There are gloves, hats, blouses, dinner suits, evening dresses and endless coats all of crisp or soft taffeta. The two coats pictured here are suitable for afternoon or evening wear. Black is the favored color, but navy, brown and pastels, if they match a frock underneath, also are looked upon with favor.

The Oriental lines which are popular this season are shown in the coat at the top. The side fastening, the collarless neck, the wide sleeves, the flare at the bottom, all had their origin in the mandarin coat.

At the bottom is an adaptation of the old-fashioned coat. The wide sleeves with their turn-back cuffs are bracelet length. A wide round collar with a little turn-back over-collar and a tiny tailored bow give a quaint touch at the neckline. The coat is the accepted finger-tip length.

Of course, these little wraps do nothing to keep one from chill winds, but they are a comfort to the woman who hates going about without a wrap of some kind.

About seventy guests attended the enjoyable dance held at the Chinese Canadian Club, Pisgard Street, on Thursday evening, the hall being attractively decorated for the occasion. Quon Dick acted as master of ceremonies, assisted by Frank Nitt.

That Body of Yours

(By James W. Barton, M.D.

MAN SHOULD EAT BOTH MEATS AND VEGETABLES

As food is the most important thing in life it is only natural that there should be much discussion about it.

Those in favor of the meat diet point to the sturdy races—Eskimos, Laplanders, the original American Indians—all of whom lived almost entirely on meat. They are of good endurance and remarkably free from disease. But if strict investigation be made it will be found that in addition to the usual "muscle" meat, as it is known, these peoples also eat other parts of the animal—liver, fatty tissues, and bone marrow—which, of course, supply the vitamins not found in muscle meat.

These peoples also eat eggs and milk, which are rich in lime, the bone-forming mineral. In the tropics vegetables and fruits form the main sources of food, but the "protein" food, not being supplied by meats, is obtained from fish and eggs, but mostly from peas, beans, nuts, corn and cereals. Vitamins and minerals are supplied in abundant quantities by vegetables and fruits.

What about lime and vitamin D to form bones? As milk and fats are scarce, nature supplies vitamin D by giving abundant sunshine, which causes the vitamin to be manufactured in the body and thus makes up for any lack of it in the blood.

In Far Eastern (Oriental) countries there is not enough land for cattle for their meat and milk. The population is so dense that the soil, however intensively cultivated, will not support both men and animals, so the latter are dispensed with except such as can eat refuse or forage for themselves, that is, pigs and poultry. But even in these countries fish, and every bit of an animal except the skin and bones is used as food. There is really no cheese, milk, beef, lamb or mutton.

To make up for this lack of meat, the use of eggs, beans, sprouts, and leafy vegetables helps to make up a "complete" diet.

In other words, the peoples of every country try to obtain an all-round diet, and if not obtained in one way, it is obtained in another. It is now generally agreed that man was intended to have an all-round diet, in which concentrated foods such as meat and eggs would form an important part.

Grass or herb-eating animals—cows—have an intestine ten times as long as their bodies. Meat-eating animals—lions, tigers, dogs—have an intestine three times as long. Man's intestine is five times as long, so he stands half way between the herb-eating and the meat-eating animals, and should eat both herbs and meats.

Costa Rica's coffee crop is less than half of that of last year.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"HELL ON EARTH"

We have an inquiry for the origin of this expression to describe a condition of great misery or suffering.

George Bernard Shaw gave the words modern literary standing when he used them in his play, "Man and Superman," in these oft-quoted lines:

"A lifetime of happiness! No man alive could bear it; it would be hell on earth!"

The expression is not however of modern origin, as its recorded use has been traced back to an old work called "Characters," by Breton. It appears in the part on "War" and dates 1615.

Registration of new automobiles in Great Britain is increasing.

Churches and Their World-Wide Work

TEAM MEMBERS WILL BE HEARD

Metropolitan to Have Lighthouse Service in Evening —Groupers in Morning

An impressive "Lighthouse Service" will be held on Sunday evening in Metropolitan United Church as part of the Young People's Society closing exercises. All the hymns will be selected from those associated with the sea, and will illuminated and illustrated with beautiful colored pictures. Rev. J. Harwood A. Warr will preach on the theme, "The Light of the World," illustrating it with Holman Hunt's picture of that name. There will also be shown a reproduction of Colonel Todd's new painting of "The Nazarene" that was exhibited at the World's Fair last year.

Bert Simpson, the newly-elected president of the society, will assist in the service, and Harry Bates will give a brief address on "Echoes of the Young People's Conference" that was held in Vancouver last weekend. During the service the new officers will be installed by Rev. E. F. Church.

The young people's choir will sing the chorus, "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning" (Bliss), and James Mossop will play a cornet solo, "The Star of the Sea," accompanied by Edward Parsons at the organ.

The morning service will be conducted by Rev. E. F. Church, when members of the International Oxford Group Team will address the congregation. The choir, under the direction of Frank Tupman, will sing the anthem, "Jesu, Lover of My Soul" (Ashford), and also the offertory hymn, "Praise My Soul" (Goss). During the service, Mr. Warr will present to Miss Eva Middleton the standard teacher training diploma that has been awarded to her by the Department of Christian Education of the United Church of Canada.

MEMBERS OF OXFORD GROUP TEAM AT OAK BAY CHURCH SUNDAY

Tomorrow will be Oxford Group Sunday at the Oak Bay United Church. Members of the International Group at present touring Canada will speak at both services. Under direction of W. H. Ruffell, the choir will assist with praise.

Great Zest Marks B.C. Conference of United Churchmen

The lively interest displayed in all the sessions of the annual meeting of the provincial body of the United Church of Canada in Vancouver, which climaxed in a prolonged debate on the social applications of Christianity that lasted until late Tuesday evening, will be taken in Sunday's weekly article on church affairs as showing a healthy condition in the life of this denomination. Live young people's gatherings, immense massed choirs, inspirational addresses from national leaders, the prominence of laymen and the honor given to mission workers were other features of what is reported to have been a very satisfactory conference.

NATIONAL GROUPS TO GO TO CHURCH

St. John's Will Hold Services on Trinity Sunday of Appropriately Patriotic Nature

The services at St. John's Church for Trinity Sunday will be of a patriotic nature, appropriate for the Sunday nearest to Empire Day. There will be Holy Communion at 8 o'clock. The Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire throughout the whole of Canada are having special church services on this Sunday, and the Victoria branches will attend St. John's Church in a body at the 11 o'clock service, when Rev. Canon F. A. P. Chadwick will deliver the address, his subject being "True Imperialism."

In the evening, the Sons of England lodges, together with the Daughters of England lodges, will be present for their annual service at 7:30 o'clock.

An organ recital will be given by G. Jennings Burnett before the evening service, comencing at 7:10 o'clock, when the following numbers will be included by request, "Prelude in E Flat," by Burnett; Introduction to "Stabat Mater," by Rossini, and "Andante Rinaldo," by Handel. During the service the choir will render the anthem, "I Am Alpha and Omega," by Sir John Stainer. Canon Chadwick will be the preacher, taking as his theme "Christianity, the Corner-Stone of National Greatness."

The Sunday school and Anglican Young People's Association Bible Class will meet at 10 o'clock.

CANCEL REGULAR MEETING

The regular Monday evening meeting of the Middleton British-Israel Guild will be canceled on this occasion, in favor of Brigadier-General Blakeney's meeting in the Chamber of Commerce, at 8 o'clock on Monday next.

Youths Organize "Christian Group"

ELLIOTT BROWN AND FLOCK

The boys attending the church are all normal schoolboys, whom one would expect to find out playing ball on the corner lot, or engaged in other boyish pursuits. They do, too. But not when the service is called.

NORTH BAY, Ont., May 25.—The strangest church in Canada has been organized in this city.

It is a church attended by 'teen-aged boys, and ministered by 14-year-old Elliott Brown, who organized the unique "Christian Group" to prevent the boys of his neighborhood from getting into trouble.

At the moment their church is a woodshed. Soon they expect to have at their disposal a more imposing structure.

Their services are not held whenever the spirit moved them. They are held each night, except Saturday, from 7 until 8:30 o'clock.

The "minister," Elliott Brown, shows a real command of religious subjects in his sermons. He has a remarkable hold over his congregation, composed as it is of red-blooded boys who would resent any implication that they were "sissies."

Elliott has made it his responsibility to see that the boys are given a good start in life. How well he has succeeded is testified to by the large attendance every night—an attendance large enough to warrant more spacious quarters.

DR. DAVIES HAS NOTABLE GUEST

Brigadier Blakeney to Lecture on Armageddon at Empire Theatre

A most remarkable message will be given to Dr. Clem Davies' evening congregation at the Empire Theatre by a pulpit-guest, a world-traveled Britisher, who will give to his hearers some startling facts and revealing incidents relating to the focussing up of Scriptural prophecy and its actual fulfillment in these present days.

Referring to his Sunday evening pulpit-guest, Brigadier-General R. B. D. Blakeney, C.M.G., D.S.O. (late Royal Engineers), Dr. Clem Davies says: "After spending an evening with Brigadier Blakeney, I can say without hesitation that he is one of the most remarkable men I have had the privilege of meeting in years. If the people of Victoria only knew the treat that was in store for them, no auditorium would be large enough to hold the multitude."

Brigadier Blakeney will have for his subject at the evening service, "On the Eve of Armageddon!" At the morning hour of worship Dr. Davies will have for his sermon topic, "Soup and Fish Religion."

ST. ANDREW'S HAS OXFORD GROUPERS

Rev. H. P. S. Luttrell to Receive Members of International Team at Both Services Tomorrow

Services will be held as usual morning and evening at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church tomorrow, the minister, Rev. H. P. S. Luttrell, officiating. It is expected that the morning sermon will be delivered by one of the visiting Oxford Group international team, and that at the evening service addresses will be given by several members of the team.

In the morning the soloist will be Mrs. Styles Sehl, who will sing "The Good Shepherd," a composition of Van de Water. The choir will sing the anthem, "Come Thou Fount of Every Blessing," by Thomas, Miss Isabelle Crawford taking the soprano obligato. In the evening the duet, "Watchman, What of the Night?" by Sargeant, will be sung by William Draper and Arnold W. Trevett. The evening anthem will be "Our Help and Shield," by Simper.

UNITED BANDS TO GIVE PROGRAMME

Adjutant and Mrs. Thierstein will lead the Sunday morning and evening meetings at the Salvation Army Citadel, Broad Street, commencing at the usual hours. Sunday school is held at 2 o'clock in the Citadel. At 3:35 the two bands of the Citadel and the songster brigade will unite in a programme of instrumental and vocal music, under the direction of songster-leader T. Wood. Weeknight meetings will be held on Monday, Thursday and Saturday at 8 o'clock. All meetings are open to the public.

Fullness of Joy to Be Discussed

At the Victoria Truth Centre tomorrow morning W. Newell Weston will speak on "Fullness of Joy." There will be a solo by George Farmer, "The Golden Pathway" (Hamilton Grey). The Sunday school meets at 11 o'clock.

In the evening at 7:30 Mr. Weston's subject will be "The Marvels of Grace." There will be a solo by Miss Freda Spencer, "Consider the Lilies" (Topliff).

During the week Mr. Weston's subjects will be as follows: Wednesday, 8 p.m., "Our Secret Convictions"; Friday, 8 p.m., "Fundamentals of Truth." All interested persons are welcome to these meetings.

ZENOR TO REMAIN FIVE DAYS MORE

Noted Psychic Lecturer and Wife Will Give Demonstrations at Spiritual Science Temple

Rev. Richard Zenor, America's foremost psychic scientist and trance lecturer, will continue his meetings at Spiritual Science Temple, 1496 Douglas Street. This young man has been on the public platform since the age of four and has astounded audiences all over the country. He has appeared before research societies both in this country and abroad, thus inviting investigation from all.

He is assisted by his wife, Lady Leitza Taus, internationally famous radio star and philosopher, who has also been in the work all her life. She is the author of several books and widely known as an authority on the science of numerology.

Dr. Zenor will be here for five days only, after which he will return to the United States. DR. A. S. IMRIE IS EVENING SPEAKER

For fifteen years the Baptist congregations of Vancouver Island have been associated in the Vancouver Island Baptist Association, which was organized in 1919, with William Marchant as first president.

Two meetings are held yearly, the annual meeting in the Fall in Victoria, and semi-annual meeting held either at Chemainus or Nanaimo.

The association will meet at Nanaimo on Wednesday, May 30, under the presidency of Dr. William Russell, of Victoria, in afternoon and evening sessions.

At the evening session, Dr. A. S. Imrie, pastor of Emmanuel Baptist Church, Victoria, will give an address on "Our Baptist Heritage."

Ministers Will Welcome Visitors to City Pulpits Tomorrow

As will be seen by the notices on this page a number of the pulpits of this city will be open tomorrow to the visitors belonging to the International Oxford Group Team. Those members of the team who were here a year ago last March will find that the movement of which they are exponents has made a great advance during the intervening months.

Victoria has its own ministerial team of seven, each of whom gave testimony at a public meeting held here in February. These have fostered and directed the many groups now to be found here.

It is likely that there will be a large attendance at the meeting for ministerial leaders that is called for 10:30 o'clock this morning.

GROUPERS WILL OCCUPY PULPIT

Members of Oxford Group Team to Be Preachers at Cathedral

Holy Communion will be celebrated tomorrow in Christ Church Cathedral at 8 and 9 o'clock. The usual 9:30 o'clock celebration will take place half an hour earlier in order to accommodate more conveniently the members of the Oxford Group Movement who desire to attend Communion.

The preachers at 11 and 7:30 o'clock will be members of the traveling team of the Group Movement, and it is requested that the Cathedral congregation take note of the various meetings of the movement which will take place this week-end and attend such meetings as they are able.

The Mission Boat of the Columbia Coast Mission will arrive in the Inner Harbor towards the end of next week. On Saturday next, June 2, the Victoria branches of the A.Y.P.A. are making a combined effort on behalf of the funds of the mission by serving tea on board the vessel between the hours of 3 and 6. It is believed that every member of the A.Y.P.A. who is in Victoria, and is free next Saturday, will try and visit the Columbia and so assist in stimulating the interest in the valuable work the Columbia Coast Mission is doing.

TO COMMEMORATE EMPIRE FESTIVAL

Dr. E. A. Henry Has Timely Topic at Fairfield—Oxford Groupers at Evening Service

Empire Day will be commemorated in Fairfield Church tomorrow. At 11 o'clock Dr. Henry will speak on "Some Elements That Make a Nation Great," and his talk to boys and girls will be about "The Good Queen Victoria." Miss Isabelle Pike will sing "Land of Hope and Glory" (Elgar), and Mrs. J. T. Keating and choir will render the anthem, "Hymn of Peace" (Callcott).

An Oxford Group team will conduct the evening service at 7:30 o'clock. The special music for the evening includes a solo, "O Lord, Rebuke Me Not" (Marzo), by L. Abbott, and an anthem, "The Radiant Morn" (Woodward), by the choir.

Sunday school and Bible classes meet at 9:45 o'clock, and the usual fifteen minute song service will be held at 7:15.

"God's Challenge to the Church of the Last Days, or the Great Sign Within the Church of the End Time," will be the subject at the Central Baptist Church on Sunday evening, when the pastor, Rev. J. B. Rowell, will preach. In connection with this subject, the pastor will deal with the sign which is evident in the true church of Jesus Christ.

At the morning service the pastor will continue the series, entitled "The High Priesthood of Our Lord," the subject being "Priesthood: The Garments of Glory and Beauty."

The Sunday school and Bible classes meet on Sunday morning at 9:45 o'clock, the prayer and praise meeting on Thursday at 8, and the young people's meeting on Friday at 8.

"The Gospel Sunshine Hour" will be broadcast over CFCT on Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

Dr. J. G. Brown and Rev. Dr. A. M. Sanford, of Union College, Vancouver, will speak on different aspects of humanism, and Professor H. R. Trumpour, of Anglican Theological College, will give two papers on the New Testament.

Harkness, of Vancouver.

Soul and Body Will Be Theme

"Soul and Body" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, May 27. The golden text is: "The very God of peace sanctify you wholly; and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ" (I Thessalonians v, 23).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be; but we know that, when He shall appear, we shall be like Him, for we shall see Him as He is. And every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure" (I John iii, 2, 3).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus beheld in Science the perfect man, who appeared to him where sinning mortal man appears to mortals. In this perfect man the Saviour saw God's own likeness, and this correct view of man healed the sick." (p. 476).

Commissioners to Go From Here to General Assembly

Rev. Samuel Lundie, of Sooke, and Alexander Cruickshank, a member of the session of St. Andrew's Church here, will represent the Presbytery of Victoria at the annual meeting of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, which will convene in Knox Church, Toronto, on June 6. The retiring Moderator, Rev. Dr. H. R. Grant, of Fort William, has been in poor health during his term of office, and may not be able to be present. His successor will be elected at the first meeting of the Assembly.

Because of the Toronto centenary, this national gathering naturally has gravitated to Toronto and to Knox Church, the oldest Presbyterian congregation there, of which Rev. Dr. J. G. Inkster, formerly of Victoria, is the present minister.

RECENT MEETINGS TO BE DISCUSSED

Rev. C. G. MacKenzie Will Give Report of B.C. Conference—Groupers in Evening

On Sunday, Rev. C. G. MacKenzie will speak at 11 o'clock in Centennial United Church on the conference just concluded in Vancouver. As this conference dealt with matters of great moment, the address will be of more than passing interest.

In the evening at 7:30 o'clock a team from the International Group will be present to conduct the usual type of meeting associated with the "Life Changers." It is reported that a new social emphasis marks the message of these young evangelists, whose slogan is "Canada for Christ."

The music for the day will be as follows: At the morning service the choir will render Jackson's "Te Deum," and James Matheson will sing a solo, "The Voice in the Wilderness" (Prindle Scott). In the evening the anthem will be "Comes at Times a Stillness" (Woodward), in which Mrs. J. Prisk will be the soloist.

The calling of a conference by the Protestant churches engaged in mission work among the Indians of Canada was endorsed at the recent meeting of the home mission board of the United Church in Toronto. Subjects for discussion that were proposed were the appointment of a commission to study the whole question of Indian education, including the improved day school on the reserve, the residential school and vocation training.

Rev. Timothy Edwards, a Cornishman, preached at Washington, Michigan, recently on his 100th birthday. Though his friends tried to induce him to take a chair, he insisted on preaching standing up.

American Mail Ship Will Not Leave for Orient Ports Today

President Grant Held at Seattle With Inbound Cargo Still Aboard—Santa Elena Turning Around at San Francisco—Radicals Blamed

Scheduled to sail from Victoria this afternoon for Far East ports, the American Mail Line Ss. President Grant will remain at Seattle for another week at least. The ship is still lying at the Puget Sound port, with the entire cargo she brought in early last week from Orient ports still in her holds.

Due to sail from this port tomorrow evening for New York, the Grace Line Ss. Santa Elena, which has been held at San Francisco since the beginning of the longshoremen's strike, will turn around at the California port and sail for New York on Thursday, May 31, her scheduled date of sailing. When the Alexander boats will resume sailings is indefinite.

Unable to discharge cargo for Seattle since her arrival on this side, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha motorship Helan Maru is sailing westbound from Vancouver this morning on schedule. The liner is taking approximately 800 tons of general cargo, including 450 bales of raw silk, back to Japan with here.

BOAT TRAINS

While very little cargo is moving from Seattle, Portland and San Francisco, except in very special instances, such as the loading of ships with necessities for Alaska ports, passenger ships are still getting away from Los Angeles. As a result of the strike, "boat trains" are now in use between San Francisco and Los Angeles to take care of steamship travel. The Malson Line has run three such trains already, and several more will be operated in the next few days.

Passengers from the Malolo, which was diverted to Los Angeles, have been brought North and travelers were taken South to board the ship. Passengers to and from the liner Monterey are to be handled in the same way.

Conferences are still going on in San Francisco between the ship operators, the waterfront workers, labor and Government officials. In connection with the strike, The Daily Commercial News, of San Francisco, states that the lack of results is not to be wondered at.

CANNOT ACCEDE

It says: "The employers have declared themselves as unable to see how they can accede to the demands of the strikers to agree to sign a closed shop pact as the basis of settlement; even if they cared to do this, it would be illegal under the N.R.A., they claim, and their position in this regard is generally considered as tenable by those who have given the matter any scrutiny whatever.

"The employers, under the N.R.A. set-up, are forbidden to refuse to allow their employees the privilege of joining any organization having for its end collective bargaining; they are also forbidden to refuse to show any discrimination when it comes to employing anyone—that is they may not refuse to hire a man because he belongs to such an organization; nor may they refuse to hire him because he does not belong to such an organization; and yet this is exactly what the striking stevedores are striving to have them (the employers) agree to. So there you are.

"All of which fully bears out the statement of the president of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce that the present strike was undoubtedly precipitated by the radical element almost entirely, and, if it wasn't, it certainly is now entirely controlled and dominated by them."

CADETS BENEFIT FROM TRAINING

Boys Inspected by Dominion Official at Drill Hall Last Night—Instructors Commended

The Rainbow Sea Cadets were inspected, last night, at their headquarters by Captain E. MacBrayne, inspector of Cadets for Canada. The boys were put through their paces by their officers, and acquitted themselves splendidly, testifying to the excellent training imparted by their instructors.

They went through the various drill exercises, performed the marchpast with the band playing music necessary for the carrying out of the various evolutions in fine style.

The boys also demonstrated what they had learned in seamanship, showed examples of sail-making, made splices of different kinds, tied numerous knots with a facility that denoted long practice and careful instruction, as well as gave an exhibition of boat-handling.

At the conclusion of the inspection, Captain MacBraye complimented the Cadets on their fine showing and appearance, and commented on the thoroughness of the training imparted by the several instructors of the corps.

Principally identified with the Rainbow Sea Cadets as instructors are Lieutenant-Commander Tribe, Lieutenant Henry, Warrant Officer Crane, Captain Philipsen, Captain Brown, Bandmaster Drysdale and Chief Petty Officer Hardy.

Chicago Fair Is Great Attraction Again This Year

More Northwest residents will visit the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago this year than last, in the opinion of Harry Clark, Great Northern agent here. The fair, today, opens its second session.

"Chicago won the admiration of the country last year for its courage in going ahead with its ambitious undertaking in the face of unfavorable conditions," said Mr. Clark. "This year the country will be ready to take the word of its backers that the fair will be even bigger and better.

"Many who were there last year are going back to see some of the things they missed. These same people also have told all their friends about the fair and they, too, will be there this year. And then a lot of new attractions have been added."

Low, round-trip railway rates are already in effect, Mr. Clark said.

Probably the most impressive spectacle ever seen will be the world's largest fountain, a new feature. It is two blocks long, throws enough water to serve a city of a million persons and has spectacular lighting effects. Overhead a giant "aurora borealis" of forty great searchlights plays a medley of color in the sky.

Unsettled tonight and Thursday, snow probable; not much change in temperature.—Lead (S.D.) paper.

Sailing Ships House Strike Breakers

—Central Press Photograph.

WHILE negotiations are being carried on with a view to bringing the strike of longshoremen in Los Angeles and Long Beach Harbors to an end, strike breakers are being quartered in two old sailing vessels, the William F. Harrison, left, and the Indiana. On the shore at right is their camp, with outdoor kitchen and a dining-room tent behind a stockade with barbed wire top. The camp and sailing vessels are located in the inner harbor. Admission is by password only. All entrances are closely guarded.

"Sky Girls" Well Established Now In Air Services

"Way back in May, 1930, the first "sky girl" in history took to the airways. There were just eight of them, and they were employed as more or less of an experiment to test the value of a woman's service aboard air liners.

Today approximately 100 stewardesses in the service of United Air Lines are celebrating the fourth anniversary of their profession's establishment. Among them is Miss Cornelia Peterman, who flies regularly in and out of the Northwest of United Pacific Coast route.

With more than 3,500 air hours and some half-million miles to her credit, Miss Peterman was one of the original eight to start the stewardess business. Like her sisters of the profession, her job is to cater to passengers aloft by serving lunches, providing reading and writing material, answering questions, pointing out sights of interest, caring for children, acting as companion for women travelers, and even now and then making a fourth at bridge.

United's stewardess service recently has been extended with the addition of hostesses on its high-speed, multi-motored Boeing transports flying between Seattle, Spokane and Pasco. Miss Marian Bennett and Miss Ellen Hughes, both graduate nurses from the Latter Day Saints Hospital at Salt Lake and both with some two years of service in the air, have been assigned to the run.

Halibut Handled Already Near to 5,000,000 Pounds

With halibut landings for last week reaching almost half a million pounds, Prince Rupert's handling volume for the 1934 season is nearly up to an aggregate of five million pounds, which is a considerable increase over last year's figures at this time.

Up to and including last Saturday, landings of halibut for the present season had reached a total of 4,906,065 pounds, as compared with 4,621,400 pounds last year at a similar date, and 4,030,550 pounds in 1932.

The effect of this increased production, if it continues, will be to shorten the length of the season by reaching the quota limits as set by the International Fisheries Commission that much sooner.

Of the total landings at the northern port so far this season, 2,488,565 pounds have been from Canadian vessels, as compared with 2,015,100 pounds last year, and 2,419,500 pounds from American boats, as against 2,603,300 pounds in 1933.

CLAIMS NEW RECORD

ETAMPES, France, May 25 (AP).—Raymond Delmotte, French pilot, today claimed a new world's airplane speed record for a 100-kilometre course, after racing over the distance at 431.64 kilometres (268.06 miles) an hour.

The record, if accepted, will top that set by James Wedell at New Orleans, where, on February 27, he flew the 100-kilometre course at 428.138 kilometres (265.80 miles) an hour.

Employment in Belgium continues to mount higher than a year ago.

SAILED FOR ARCTIC SEA

Schooner C. S. Holmes Taking Heavy Cargo From Seattle to Northern Points

SEATTLE, May 25 (AP).—Ferocious wolves, traveling in the Arctic in packs of from ten to fifteen, scattering red and white fox far into the Interior, led Captain John Backland, master of the four-masted sailing schooner C. S. Holmes, which sailed for the Far North today, to anticipate a rather poor trading season.

"Wolves in the Arctic were unusually ferocious during the past Winter," he said, "driving the fox into the Interior. According to word I have received from trappers, the wolves have not only played havoc with the fox, but have killed hundreds of reindeer. These raids seem to come in cycles for some unexplainable reason."

Because of the longshoremen's strike, the Holmes, bound for Bering Sea, the Arctic and as far North as Point Barrow, will leave behind, temporarily, almost the entire fleet of Seattle-Alaska steam and motor craft tied up in Elliott Bay. With permission of the seamen's and longshoremen's unions, the schooner's crew of ten stowed the freight aboard.

LOADED FULL

The Holmes, carrying a capacity cargo, will leave freight on the dock because of lack of space. Every inch on her deck and below hatches is filled with Government freight and trading supplies.

She will be towed to Cape Flattery and then square away for Bering Sea. The first call will be at Gambell on St. Lawrence Island.

Captain Backland, who succeeded his father in the Holmes, is making his seventh voyage to the Arctic as master. For sixteen years the vessel has been cruising to Point Barrow. Cargo includes a warehouse "knocked down" for the Presbyterian Mission at Point Barrow; a tractor for the Government at Wainwright; flour, coal, sugar, and other commodities.

DOCKERS TO CLASH WITH THISTLES XI

Esquimalt Changes Line-Up for Today's Match at Royal Athletic

Two cup winners in local football circles will be named this afternoon in the first and second divisions of the Pacific Coast Football League at the Royal Athletic Park. A double-header will be presented to the fans, Saanich Thistles and Esquimalt first stringers meeting in the opener at 2:30, with J. C. Dowds as referee, followed by Victoria City and Saanich Thistles in the second match at 4 o'clock with Dave Swan in charge. The senior tussle will be for the McGavin Cup and the second division winners will take possession of the Peden Cup. Both trophies have been presented for the benefit of the injured players' fund. Overtime will take place in each game, if necessary.

THREE NEW PLAYERS

With the Wednesday league finished, three members of the Garrison eleven will appear in the uniform of the Esquimalt seniors. Stan Bichard will work on the back division, along with Joe Watt, while Dickie Miller will be at centre forward and Jimmy Worswick at outside left. All three played with the dockers before entering the army. The Thistles will be strong and will be even money to take the decision

Line-ups follow:

Esquimalt—De Costa, Joe Watt, Bichard, Pepin, Hay, Barnswell, Sweeney, John Watt, Miller, Wagland and Worswick.

Saanich Thistles—Rowe, F. Gibbons, Essler, Williams, Leggett, Crowe, L. Gibbons, Morgan, C. Chapman, Viggers, Clancy, Telfor, Mali and McConnell.

Victoria City—Wensley, Moody, Murray, Sage, D. Robertson, McLellen, Stewart, Harris, S. Carr, J. Carr, Holness, S. Robertson, Edwards and Casey. Players are asked to meet at the Veterans of France at 3 o'clock.

Junior Games Are One-Sided

Easy victories featured last evening's games in the junior division of the Lower Island Softball Association. Goodwin's Grocery, present leaders, scored a 13-3 win over Art Points, and the Liberals downed Peacock's Grocery, 16-6. Harris' Cycle tes took a heavy-hitting game from the Province, 24-16, and Adams' Grocery trimmed the Colonist, 15-6. The closest game of the evening went to Foul Bay, who defeated Jameson's Electric, 11-8.

Moscow, Russia, now has only about thirty churches.

Shows Speed at High Meet

DICK Surphlis, a young sprinter of note, who shared the championship honors with Bill Dale at the Victoria High School sports, held yesterday. Surphlis showed his heels to competitors in the 100, 220 and 440-yard dashes. He ran the 100 yards in 10 2-5 seconds, only a fifth off the record held by Joe Addison. Surphlis is regarded as one of Victoria's coming sprinters.

McLarnin Held at Even Money Only To Win From Ross

Experts, However, Believe Canadian Boy Will Carry Too Much Weight and Power for Jewish Fighter—Gate of $300,000 Predicted

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP).—Barney Ross packed up his things at his Ferndale training camp today and headed for New York to fight Jimmy McLarnin fifteen rounds for the welterweight championship in Madison Square Garden on Long Island Monday night.

The lightweight champion from Chicago wound up his training ordeal as fit as a man can be for a task ring history says can't be done, but 65,000 people here expected to pay some $300,000 for the privilege of seeing him try anyway.

"I'm in the best of condition of my career," he said as he started for New York. "I haven't a sign of an excuse. McLarnin can't beat me."

WEIGHT TO BE FACTOR

Despite this confidence, experts believe McLarnin, in superb condition despite a lay-off of a full year since he knocked out Young Corbett in a round to win his title, will carry too much weight and too many guns for Ross.

Jimmy ended his heavy training at his Atlantic City camp with a fast three rounds against Conrad Reed, a Philadelphia Negro lightweight. The Canadian Celt appeared to have all his old power and to have increased his speed.

McLarnin, held no better than even money to win, boxed easily at his camp in Atlantic City and planned to work right through tomorrow, and possibly Monday morning, so as to be certain of making the weight he has agreed upon, 145 pounds at noon Monday. The Vancouver belter has posted a $10,000 forfeit that he will be two pounds under the class limit.

Ross, weighing 137 pounds, faces the big task of conceding ten rounds and still beating the hardest hitter below heavyweight poundage in the ring today.

NEVER KNOCKED DOWN

In his final session with his sparring partners, Phil Rafferty and Al Cassimini, he concentrated on the charging offensive he expects will nullify McLarnin's belting power. He has never been knocked out, or even knocked down in some seventy matches.

"Pop" Foster, McLarnin's manager, said there will be no more boxing. McLarnin will go on the road tomorrow morning, do light exercises later and motor to New York Sunday morning to await the bell. It was announced that Jimmy was down to 146 pounds and would have no trouble shaving off the other to make the agreed-on 145 pounds Monday noon.

EXPLANATION FOR YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

A Difficult Gym Stunt—Robert L. Jones, of Camden, N.J., an ardent gymnast, keeps up the most astounding repertoire of finger stands and finger dips that I have ever seen. A few years ago he surprised me by standing on his thumbs with body straight in the air, and since that time he has accomplished a thumb stand on top of dumbbells and bottles, hand stands on the tips of his fingers, and a finger stand on his middle finger, as well as many other similar accomplishments.

The Uncrowned Queen—Caroline of Braunschweig-Wolfenbuttel (1768-1821), the daughter of a gay German duke, married George IV of Great Britain in 1794, when the latter was still Prince of Wales. Two years later the Prince forsook his wife. She sailed for the Continent and spent many years traveling.

After the death of George III, Caroline returned to Great Britain, to be present at the coronation of her royal husband. She was refused admission to Westminster Abbey on July 19, 1821, this refusal being her death blow, from which she died on August 7.

AUSSIES AND HANTS DRAW IN CRICKET

Time Limit Saves Tourists From First Defeat of English Invasion

LONDON, May 25 (CP).—The match between Hampshire and the touring Australian cricketers was left drawn today after the Aussies had been given a rude shock by Hants' young amateur bowler, A. E. G. Baring.

The Aussies had only a slight lead on the first innings—13 runs. If the time limit had not forced conclusion of the match the visitors might well have suffered the first defeat of the tour, in view of the collapse of first-class bats before the trundling of Baring, fastest bowler in England outside of Harold Larwood himself.

THE SCORES

When stumps were drawn, scores were: Hampshire, 420 and 169 for 7 wickets declared; Australians, 433 and 10 for 1 wicket.

Resuming, today, Aussies had 424 for 9. When they were dismissed, young A. E. Chipperfield topped the scoring with 116 not out. Arnold with 109 not out, was best of the second-inning bats for Hampshire.

Daring finished his innings with a total of 5 wickets for 121 runs.

DICK SURPHLIS IN THREE SPRINT WINS AT ANNUAL MEETING

Finishes in Tie for Championship With Bill Dale, Who Won Half-Mile and Mile Events—Tessie Lee-Warner and Doreen Beere Share Girls' Crown—Yosh Ishida, Virginia Hall Win

Running with a beautiful stride, Dick Surphlis, young dark-haired trackster, captured the feature three sprints at the annual Victoria High School track and field championships held yesterday afternoon on the local campus, but at that he had to be content with sharing the boys' senior title with lanky Bill Dale, by far the tallest competitor to face the starter. The latter breezed to victory in three events, winning the half-mile, the mile in brilliant style, and then following these up with a first in the hop step and jump. Tessie Lee-Warner, flaxened-haired speedster, and last year's titleholder in the girls' senior division, was forced to share honors with Doreen Beere, each finishing the day with thirteen points.

Three records, one senior girls', a pair of junior boys', went by the board, Although some of the senior standards were threatened they remained intact. It could hardly be expected of these competitors to shatter marks as the weather was anything but good during the day. As the hour approached for the opening event, the rain was coming down steadily, making the sprint lanes slippery and dangerous. However, the rain slackened for a time and everything was going in fine style when it started to pour again. Officials went through with the meet and ran off the large list of events in rapid fashion.

The marks shattered came at intervals. The junior boys' hurdles over 70 yards was made by Henry Rowe in nine and three-fifths, beating the old record of Bill Halket of ten and one-fifth. Rowe also set a new standard in the 110-yard hurdles, running over the barriers in twelve and two-fifths seconds, wiping out another of Halket's marks by one-fifth of a second. Doreen Dale-Johnson heaved the basketball seventy-five feet seven and a half inches to hang up a new distance for senior girls to shoot at. She broke the record by three feet.

SHOW FINE PREFORMANCE

In finishing in a deadlock for premier honors, Dick Surphlis and Bill Dale gave splendid exhibitions. The former was the class of the sprints, winning the century, 220 and 440 without much opposition. He captured the 100-yards by ten feet, breaking first with the gun and streaking down the middle lane at a fast clip to be timed in ten and two-fifths. Surphlis took the 220 by twenty feet and passed the field on the first turn to take the 440 by about the same distance. Dale took the half-mile by spurting on the last lap to pass Ralph Shepherd, the pace-setter, to win by seven feet, and then paced the field at of the way to capture the mile by fifty yards. Higgins set the pace in this race but was forced out as the field raced into the final lap.

EASY VICTORY

Yosh Ishida, in the class of the intermediates, won the laurels by a comfortable margin. He raced to victory in the century, broad jump, 220, 120 hurdles, 440, and placed third in the high jump to pile up twenty-six points. No one was close to him. Henry Rowe was outstanding in the junior events, winning the honors by a wide margin. H., won the high jump, 110 and 70-yard hurdles, the broad jump and placed second in the 75-yards dash to gain twenty-three points for the afternoon.

Tessie Lee-Warner's tie with Olga Schwengers in the high jump forced her to share the championship this year with Doreen Beere, who was brilliant in the events she competed in. The defending titlist was first in the broad jump, placed second in the 70-yard hurdles and third in the 75-yard dash. Doreen Beere garnered a win in the sprint, was second in the broad jump, and scored another victory in the hurdles.

Virginia Hall was the pick of the intermediates. She finished the day with twenty points, thirteen more than her nearest rival, Wilma McIlimoyl. The new champion had a first in the sprint, broad jump, 70-yard hurdles and basketball throw. She captured four out of the five events in displaying her wares to the field. Margaret Tonman took the girls' junior title, gaining two firsts in the sprint and basketball throw, a second in the broad jump and a third in the high jump for fourteen points. Thelma Warren was second with eleven points, made up of two firsts in the high jump and broad jump, and a third in the sprint.

Next game, Sunday — Sidney vs. Sons of Canada, at Sidney, at 3 o'clock.

Booting the ball all over the infield, and occasionally the outfield, Taiyos suffered a 6 to 0 defeat in their first league appearance of the Twilight baseball loop, last evening, at the Royal Athletic Park, by bowing to Stockers before a fair crowd. The game was ragged, the Taiyos giving Harry Holness wobbly support. Stockers scored a run in each of the first two frames, and then added four more in the fourth.

Bill Holness went the distance for the winners, and did not have much trouble in chalking up a decision. He only allowed two safeties and struck out seven; while his younger brother, Harry, on the opposing mound, gave four hits and fanned eleven. Shieky Ashikawa played short for the losers, and figured in two smart double killings.

Short score:

WALLACE AND LITTLE REACH BRITISH GOLF FINAL

Scottish Carpenter Beats Dunlap 2 and 1 In Great Encounter

Wallace Plays Sensational Golf in Last Nine to Eliminate American—Lawson Little Defeats Leslie Garnett in Sensational Match at Nineteenth Hole—Huge Gallery

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer.

PRESTWICK, Scotland, May 25 (AP).—James Wallace, an unemployed Scottish carpenter, today qualified to meet W. Lawson Little, long-hitting Californian, for the British amateur golf championship. A hectic day saw the elimination, today, of George T. Dunlap, Jr., United States amateur title-holder.

Wallace conquered Dunlap, 2 and 1, in one of the greatest competitive rounds seen in Scotland. Little defeated Leslie Garnett, of Addington, one up, in an extra-hole match. Wallace and Little meet in the thirty-six-hole championship round tomorrow.

Wallace, promised a steady job if he beats Little for the title, started out in his characteristic slow, methodical way against Dunlap and was one down to the United States champion at the half-way mark. For the rest of the round he hammered down an unbroken series of pars and birdies, finally nailing his frail rival at the seventeenth, where he banged in a sensational fifteen-foot putt for a birdie that actually won.

THREE UNDER PAR

The jobless Scotsman was three under par for the eight holes along the backward route, while Dunlap was even with regulation figures.

The gallery of 10,000, most of them, of course, Scots, respected the competitors with tomb-like silence during the actual moments of play, but cheered wildly after each shot.

"He's a grand golfer, and when a man shoots the kind of golf Wallace did, I don't feel disgraced in losing," Dunlap said. "He's one of the finest putters I ever saw. Maybe his form is not entirely orthodox, but I'll tell the world it gets results."

Because of his financial plight, Wallace has been an example of the old saying, "clothes don't make the man," or, for that matter, the golfer. He's been wearing the same brown sweater, pants and socks all week, and his shoes are half-soled. He once shot the Portland course at Troon in sixty-eight for the course record.

LENGTHY DRIVES

The Little-Garnett semi-final was full of dramatics. It afforded the gallery one of the rarest treats in long-ranged driving from the tees ever seen in these parts. Time and again they banged out tee shots that measured more than 260 yards, and at the eighth hole lashed out drives that reached 290 yards.

Their match was a give-and-take affair on the first nine, with the exchanges even. Little took the lead with a birdie four at the twelfth, but the advantage was short-lived, as Garnett won the next hole. Little closed out on the first extra hole, holing a three-foot putt, while Garnett blunderingly missed a two-footer.

RAIN HALTS DOUBLES IN CUP TENNIS

U.S.-Canada Series Delayed by Weatherman—Will Continue Today

WILMINGTON, Del., May 25 (AP).—If the weatherman is willing, Yankee netmen will attempt to clinch victory tomorrow in the first round of American zone play against Canada for the Davis Cup.

The round is theirs if they win the doubles match from the Canadian team, now on the blank end of a 2 to 0 score. Rain caused a postponement of play today.

If the Dominion forces win the doubles the competition will go back to singles. Whether the singles will be played or defaulted in the event the United States team captures the doubles tomorrow is a question the cup committee will announce after the match is out of the way.

The winner of the round goes to Baltimore next week-end for a series with the Mexican tennis team. Victors in that round will go abroad for inter-zone competition.

DOUBLES TEAMS

The doubles will find George M. Lott, Jr., of Chicago, and John Van Ryn, East Orange, N.J., paired against Marcel Rainville, of Montreal, and Walter Martin, of Regina and Toronto.

The United States representatives swept the singles yesterday, Lester R. Stoefen, of California, sinking Rainville, and Francis X. Shields beating Martin.

GOLF FACTS
NOT THEORIES!

By ALEX MORRISON

Most golfers asking me to look at their swings want to know something about the downswing.

A few ask me to watch their backswings, but seldom do I have anyone ask me to check up on the way they start the backswing.

The better a player becomes the more attention he gives to his starting position and the initial move of his backswing. He knows that starting properly is half the battle.

The correct way to start your backswing is by moving your body, arms in close to your stomach, as though all of one piece.

To do this you must have your arms in close to your stomach, the upper part of your arms resting against your body. Then you can start the swing by moving your stomach.

This should move your arms and the club without an effort on the part of your hands.

"Is this a healthy town?" asked the newly-arrived invalid.

"I should say so," answered the native. "When I came here I hadn't the strength to utter a word; I had scarcely a hair on my head; I couldn't walk across the room; and had to be lifted from my bed."

"You give me hope. How long have you been here?"

"I was born here."

Security Prices Gain Slightly at New York Mart

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP).—Stocks crept forward cautiously today in another thin market.

There was an undercurrent of returning cheer but it afforded little comfort to brokers, burdened with overhead of facilities requiring an average daily volume of some 2,000,000 shares to pay costs.

Transfers totaled 535,470 shares. The average price of 90 stocks closed at 77, up nine-tenths of a point.

Outstanding strength was restricted to tobacco shares. Proposals in Congress to cut tobacco taxes 40 per cent brought gains to 2 points to American Tobacco "B," Liggett & Myers "B," Reynolds and Rillard.

Curtiss Publishing preferred advanced more than 2 points. Tide Watter Associated Oil preferred gained 2 points. Moderate demand carried corn products, Devoe & Reynolds, Allied Chemical and Du Pont up for gains of about 2 points. American Can, General Motors, U.S. Steel, American Telephone, New York Central, Southern Pacific and other old leaders showed gains of around a point or less at the close.

Government issues and high-grade railroad and utility obligations monopolized activities on the bond market, today, recording substantial advances.

The foreign list was quiet and changes narrow.

TORONTO MINES FIRM SLIGHTLY

Golds Are Stronger But Selling of Silvers Persists—Base Metals Quiet

TORONTO, May 25 (CP).—The bears again had the edge in the mining share market, today, although the last hour exhibited a good deal of restlessness in the list and a few recoveries among the leaders.

Dome, on a turnover of 160 shares, closed 75 cents up at 38.00; McIntyre gained 1.00 to 44.00, while Hollinger added 15 cents and Bralorne, 10 cents. Pioneer dropped 65.

Selling continued in the silver group and recessions were general. Eldorado at 2.41 lost 9 cents, Bear Exploration and White Eagle receded 2 cents each.

Base metal shares had very narrow swings on light turnover. Hudson's Bay lost 20 cents and Noranda gained 5. Falconbridge, Sherritt and Sudbury Basin lost 2 to 3 cents each.

WHEAT SOARS THREE CENTS

Adverse Crop Reports Send Buyers Scurrying to Winnipeg Market

WINNIPEG, May 25 (CP). — Parched wheat lands of Western Canada, United States and important areas of Europe, brought an influx of purchasing orders on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, shooting futures prices up for net gains of 2 7-8 to 3 cents.

Quotations started upward at the opening bell, and never looked back. They finished at top levels with the May option at 73 1-4, July at 74 1-4, and October at 76 1-8 cents.

There was also evidence of a little export business in Canadian wheat. Offerings never exerted much pressure on the market, and this condition was a large factor in sustaining the advance.

The weather map forecast sharply higher temperatures, and indicated no relief in the immediate future.

Liverpool gained 1-2 to 5-8d, while Chicago kept pace with Winnipeg most of the day.

Cash grains idled, and coarse grains displayed strength.

Virginia Vane Says:

CAN MARRIED MAN'S TRUE DEVOTION BRING HAPPINESS TO HIS AFFINITY?

Dear Virginia Vane: I am a married man in love with a girl who is not my wife. Perhaps I am one of the married men you have written about. I daresay you are right in warning girls that most married men are dangerous and unreliable.

But my case is different. I am genuinely in love with the girl and would do anything in the world to make her happy. My wife is a hopeless invalid and has been so for years. I have given her every care and attention, and to this day she loves me devotedly. There is nothing I wouldn't do for her, but my life is hardly normal as you may realize.

Now my girl is much younger than I am, but she has an old head on her shoulders. She understands what she is doing and says she is contented never to marry but to devote her life to me. My love for her is so genuine that I think I am justified in letting this situation remain as it is. But I would like your frank opinion. I don't know whether I will take your advice or not, but I should like to hear what you have to say. I enjoy your column very much.—R.D.

The tragedy of your married life, R.D., requires all the strength and fortitude in the world, to face and to endure. But if you really want to get things straightened out you will have to call on such reserves of courage as you have.

For I have the greatest sympathy for you and would far rather tell you cheerfully that the escape you suggest is the best way all round for you and your wife and the girl you love. Actually I cannot believe this to be the case. .

The most important thing to consider is the happiness of the girl who is so much younger than you are. Of course she believes that your love spells perfect peace and joy to her. She is undoubtedly young enough to trust in lifelong romances. She is influenced by the man who is so much older than she is. And although that older man may have the most tender and perfect love for her, he cannot help being selfish in his demands.

For, just look what he asks for! He asks that a young woman give up all hope of a home and a man of her own to care for, and children to love and protect. He asks that she henceforward and forevermore be known as the sweetheart of a married man. He asks that she accept a dangerous relationship in place of the normal happiness which might come her way were she not tied up with a clandestine love-affair.

All this, he asks unconsciously of course. Because his young affinity assures him earnestly that life without him would be more insupportable than life with him under any circumstances—he is convinced that he can give here the only happiness she will ever know. It doesn't occur to him to doubt the wisdom of his sweetheart—or to inquire whether she, after all, is a sound judge of what is going to constitute happiness for her in the future.

In other words he takes the decision of an infatuated girl as final. And I'm afraid he believes her implicity because he wants so much to believe.

It takes a rare kind of unselfishness to impel an older man to decide against his own happiness for the sake of the girl he loves. It takes a splendid kind of courage to renounce the sweetness of love for grim duty's sake. But any man who likes to be on good terms with himself will be dissatisfied with a relationship which is hurting the thing he loves most. And the sacrifice he makes, however heart-breaking it may be, will give him more peace of mind and self-respect than years and years of a bitter-sweet intrigue.

And understand this, R.D.—that from a practical point of view the sort of relationship you have in mind is very unsatisfactory. No young girl can undertake it in the right spirit. She may tackle the job with an unselfish spirit, a clear mind, and the desire to make her true love happy. But she hasn't the experience or understanding to make a success of it.

Gradually she grows more possessive—just as every young wife has done from time immemorial. She demands more and more time and attention. She resents increasingly your other home—your other interests. She longs to be the centre of your universe and as time goes on she becomes rebellious at the thought of the small place she has in your life.

Inevitably there will be quarrels and scenes, just as there are in better regulated households. And the fact that you are a married man, securely tied to an invalid wife will make those quarrels more dangerous and more destructive.

Can't you see that no love-blinded girl can possibly understand the dangers and difficulties of an irregular relationship? Don't you understand that the man who is in love with her and who has had more experience of life than she's had—must be the one to tell her the truth, and to end the affair?

Renunciation is a bitter thing—when one is still in love with life—but if it results in the ultimate happiness of the one human being beloved beyond all others—then it is bound to bring a deep and lasting peace with it which time cannot destroy nor circumstance take away.

Grit your teeth and stick to your job. Life may still hold happiness for you and it will be greater and sweeter than that which you might take at the expense of someone else's peace and joy.

GIVE YOUNG MAN TIME TO RETURN FAVOR

Waiting: It was quite according to Hoyle and Emily Post to ask the young man to dine. Don't be self-conscious about it.

It may be that he is, like a great many other boys, out of pocket-money right now, which makes him shy about suggesting another date. The fact that you gave him food and entertainment may be on his mind so that he's unwilling to show up again until he can repay in kind.

Boys of his age are extremely sensitive, and the sooner the girls understand this, the more understanding and helpful they will be. Wait a while. My bet is that the diffident young man will be on hand one of these days, asking for a date like a good little soldier.

(An Inland Revenue expert from England is at present in Palestine, where he is examining the fiscal position with a view to advising the High Commissioner on the projected introduction of income tax on the British model into the Holy Land.)

I weep for you, the Walrus said, I deeply sympathize,
O land of long catastrophes of every shape and size,
Your portion has been trouble since the days when Moses shone—
Great, hefty slabs of it, and, lo! it keeps on keeping on.
Assyrians had a hack at you, and Babylonians, too;
Came Alexander nosing round, and then that Roman crew;
The Arabs and the Saracens then took a running punch,
And I don't suppose Crusaders were a wholly gentle bunch.
In short, persistent trouble on a most extensive plan
Was the normal situation from Beersheba unto Dan.
But of all the stern inflictions that have bowed your people's backs,
The worst is now approaching in our British Income Tax!
O better far Belshazzar, or his grass-devoring dad,
Or the ruthless Roman legions under Titus, savage lad!
O better Caliph Omar, or the Turks who came by sea
Than this last and worst invasion of those Schedules A to E!
With Collectors and Inspectors and Demand Notes red and blue,
I weep to think of all the future holds in store for you;
With inquiries and rejoinders and assessments and returns,
The Holy Land is for it, and my heart with pity yearns!

Rene Le Farge came forward so swiftly that he overturned his glass on the carved balustrade. He bent to kiss Sandra's slim brown hand.

RESTLESS WOMEN
BY JANE DIXON

CHAPTER VII

The crash came sooner than Sandra anticipated, and from a totally unexpected quarter.

As she descended the stairs of the cottage the evening of the clambake, Sandra had that particular feeling of sovereignty which comes to a woman who is looking her ultimate best and knows it. The dress she wore was the color of the sea in Summer with the moon shimmering upon it—jade and silver-gilt. That it had weathered many similar occasions in the giddy gesturing of a social order which lives in show windows was of small consequence to its wearer. By contrast the jade dress made a coronet of burnished copper of her hair, deepening the bronze of her slim arms and straight young shoulders.

"Worn but willing," Sandra thought. "At any rate, it will see me through the night. What a night! Abandonment to whatever is. Hit the line hard and often—for the limit."

Three of the men who were to form her escort already had knotted on the veranda, one was coming up the steps and the remaining two had turned in at the gate when Sandra appeared through the doorway.

"Hail, hail, the gang's all here—or it is?" The questioner was a rolypoly youth showing unmistakable signs of inflated girth and early baldness.

"It is," Sandra said. "That is, if you think you can manage with six."

"Six or sixty, you'll slip us just the same." Sonny Warren untangled his long length from the chair and came forward to take Sandra's arm. The round youth hastily possessed himself of the other.

"Off to the races," he called, and the cavalcade moved toward its first objective, which was to be the palazzo of the Courtlands, transplanted piecemeal from an Italian city, and set up, with every modern accompaniment that building genius could devise, on this alien gold coast. It was the custom among the young recruits of Sandharbor's pleasure army to "turn on the steam" in various "hot spots" before venturing the main event of the evening.

On a stone terrace under the stars the cohorts of youth were already gathered, calling out hilarious greetings to Sandra and her party as they moved into the salient.

"Mademoiselle. Tonight it is that you are tres jolie, charmante—irreseestebie!" Rene le Farge came forward so swiftly that he overturned his glass on the carved balustrade. He bent to kiss Sandra's slim brown hand.

"Run away, baron, my boy, can't you see I'm busy?"

"But mon petite Sandee—one leetle smile—surely it is not too much to ask, and later perhaps one, two leetle dance—yes?"

"No dance. And don't cut in unless I give the signal. Bubbles is watching you and she's getting prickly heat."

Couples were dancing in a haze of stardust that sifted down on to the tiled floor of a balcony out toward the sea. Sandra, swooning in the muted melody, the moonlight, the sensuousness of the night, was recalled to the present by the insistent pressure of a cheek against her own. Sonny Warren, apparently, was not to be denied.

"First dance at the club, Sandy? May I?"

"If you like." As well Sonny as another.

"And the last dance—I" be patient, Sandy. Promise?"

"I wouldn't know about that." The music stopped. Sandra whirled herself free of Sonny's arms. "It's ages from now. Anything can happen—and will, if I can make it."

"I can't see why you're so skittish with me," Sonny growled. "The others don't seem to mind having me around."

"Of course they don't, you nice wooly lamb." Music resumed. They were dancing again. "Think what a lovely fleece you have. It just happens I'm not fleecing this season. Let's collect our party. I think we're moving on. Five of them in all. Don't count short."

Eventually, after stopovers at "steam stations" similar to that of the Courtlandts, Sandra's party lent its presence to the Sandharbor Club. It was near midnight. Sprawled across the sand dunes like some gargantuan dragon strung with electric jewels, the long low building seemed to have caught and held all the color and brilliance in this corner of the universe, and was now spewing it forth from every pore. Somewhere within Sandra a wire buzzed, throwing off tiny electric sparks that spun through her veins. Life, this life, was beautiful, breathless——

She located her mother, sitting with the "death watch"—youth's patter for those elders among matrons who made a gesture of keeping an eye on their offspring—at the far end of the assembly hall. She would give a wide berth to that quarter.

Sonny claimed his first dance. Half way up the hall Sandra saw, over his shoulder, that her mother had glimpsed her, leveled a lorgnette and was nodding approval of a situation which placed her daughter in temporary keeping of so important an eligible as young Warren. Valerie was nowhere in sight.

Sandra danced for an hour, pausing only for an exchange of partners or a sip of punch, the potency of which was beginning to sap the freshness and fog the minds of those who drank too deeply. Rene le Farge was bearing down on her from a distance, determination in his eye. He meant to cut in whether she signaled him or not.

"I feel slightly swizzled," she confided to the rolypoly youth bobbing her about the floor. "Bring me something wet with a stick in it, will you, Beano? I'll wait here, just outside the door." He departed in as near a canter as one of his girth could manage.

Sandra slipped through the door, turned sharply to the right, darted behind an oasis of palms and flowering shrubs, and escaped down an unfrequented path that threaded its way toward the ocean. A sudden urge to be alone was upon her. She scudded along to a gate in a high wall built in the Spanish style, a gate designed to shut out from the glamorous world within those who by ancestry, wealth, or social gymnastics, had not yet enrolled their names on the sacrosanct tablet of the Sandharbor Club. The gate was closed. She struggled with the latch until it yielded, swung back the gate, emerged onto the beach. The sand was mica in the moonlight. Beyond the ocean curled and ruffled, murmuring its eternal lullaby.

"Sandy!" Some one caught her arms, was pressing them tightly against her body. She did not move. She knew the voice. Gil Akin had followed her.

"Sandy, I had to see you."

The hold on her wrists slackened. Still she did not move.

"For God's sake, Sandy, what's come over you?" Her wrists were free now. She swung around.

"I'm bewitched by the moon," she said evenly. "Can't one commune with Nature without being captured and dragged back to Bedlam? Run away, do please. I crave to be alone."

"Like hell I will. I've been stalking you all night. Now that I've caught up with you——"

"But you haven't caught up with me." Sandra moved swiftly in a direction away from the gate. Suddenly she turned, dodged her pursuer's outstretched hands and sped up the beach, disappearing through the dark aperture in the wall. Gil was drunk. She knew by the thickness of his tongue, his loss of balance when he attempted to turn quickly and follow her. Darn these long dresses. Her foot had caught twice. She must be careful, turning the corners—there! She'd done it again.

Sandra stumbled forward, straight into the arms of a man who braced himself for the impact.

"Sorry," she panted, "my heel—in the hem of my dress——"

"Lucky I was on deck." The man released her. "You were headed for those bushes behind me."

Something within Sandra stirred, rapturously. She looked up. The man was in a pool of moonlight. Yes, she had been right about that voice. It belonged to the tall young man with the merry blue eyes, the one Gil had accused, on the beach, of masquerading as a gentleman when his cameraman tried to snap her in a bathing suit.

"I really don't go around colliding with people—as a rule," Sandra explained. "I've been known to clear any number of them, even when running—away."

"Of course you don't. Pebble paths are treacherous in the dark, especially for runaways. Perhaps you'd consent to my running with you. I had a pretty fair track record——"

"Quick," Sandra grasped his arm. "Walk on down the path, as if you were out for a stroll. Don't look back, please." Sandra had caught a wraith of white between the shrubs toward the clubhouse. The tall young man moved on into the shadow.

With the agility of an animal seeking cover Sandra bounded off the path, crouched low behind a hydrangea tree. Very close to her now, and passing on the path, was Val. Val stalking Gil! Poor frenzied, tortured Val.

"Escaped by an eyelash," Sandra congratulated herself and continued to crouch. Val would find Gil alone. She could hear Val's affected little scream, and her low laugh: "How did you happen to be here? I came out for a breath of the sea." Val would take Gil's arm, lead him back along the path, soothing, cajoling——"

Why had Gil followed her, Sandra, when it was Val he wanted? Perhaps there were times when he needed someone to barge about with, some one who would play up to his mood, feed him with delirious chatter. Not the pale rose, the lovely, supercilious, cloying Val.

Sandra stole out from behind the tree, hurried along the path to the club. The rolypoly youth was standing by the doorway, a frosted glass in his hand. He had all but fallen asleep at his post.

"Darling," Sandra cried, pouncing upon him with the ardor of a mother hen who has found a lost chick in a rainstorm. "Where have you been? I was about to broadcast an alarm."

The rolypoly youth was so mollified by the fervor of Sandra's greeting that he forgot what it was he was going to say to her for "standing him up."

"You said you'd wait by this door," he accused.

"Never mind, angel. Now that we've found each other let's float."

She'd dance, and she would keep her eyes open for the tall young man who had saved her from a fall. He'd be sure to come back. A normal amount of curiosity would bring him back after that moonlight encounter. He was wearing evening clothes. That meant he was a guest. Whose? He had not been present earlier in the evening, she was certain. But why was she certain? Among so many people—the dance room had been crowded when she arrived—he might easily have escaped her notice. No, she would have known. Even in the crowd, she would have singled him out. It came to her, with the same breathless stirring of her heart she had felt when he held her in his arms on the path, that she had been carrying about wit her a very definite picture of the tall young stranger as he looked that morning on the beach when she first saw him. The picture he had obtruded itself between her and Gil when she thought Gil was going to propose during the drive from Canoe Cove. She had been conscious of it many times since, a disturbing yet enchanting awareness.

If the stranger returned he would manage to get an introduction. Funny, having to be introduced to some one you felt you'd known always, even though you didn't know his name—he must have a name of course.

Sandra, pliant to the guidance of the rolypoly youth, suddenly assumed the lead. The tall young stranger had appeared in a doorway at the far end of the dance room.

"Gosh, Sandy, have a heart," her partner complained. "What's the hurry? It's as hot as——"

"I know. You're all wet. Chronic state." She manoeuvred so that she would face the tall young man as she passed the door. A quick nod over her partner's shoulder, an encouraging smile. Maybe the stranger would take his courage by the hand and cut in.

B.C. Aviation Notes

Quite a number of visitors from the Coast attended the convention of the Associated Boards of Trade of Eastern British Columbia at Grand Forks on May 17. Unfortunately those who were planning on leaving Vancouver on that date by air were unable to get through, as the weather man refused to cooperate. However, there were five planes at the Grand Forks airport on that date. Inspector R. Carter Guest and Flight-Lieutenant A. L. Johnston were there with the air force Moth; Cliff Peene had arrived a day or so before with his Eagle-rock, in which he has been touring the Interior; directors of the Dentonia Mines arrived from Calgary in a Fokker monoplane; a Fairchild monoplane owned by Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company brought six passengers, five from Trail and Mayor T. M. Roberts from Cranbrook. W. M. Archibald and S. G. Blaylock, of the Consolidated Company, arrived in the former's Puss Moth.

Thirty or more visitors, early arrivals to the convention, were guests of the Greenwood Board of Trade in that town for luncheon, Thursday. En route they passed through Phoenix, the ghost town, which was deserted by its 2,500 inhabitants fifteen years ago when the mines there closed down; also paying a visit to Dentonia Mines, Helen Mines, Brooklyn - Stemwinder Mines and the Dynamo Mines property, as well as the Boundary Creek placers operated by Dr. Lang, of Vancouver. Thursday evening, Grank Forks was the scene of an elaborate banquet prepared by the Board of Trade there, attended by nearly 175 delegates and visitors. The convention concluded on Friday morning and the homeward trek commenced in the afternoon with the feeling that Grand Forks had done herself proud in arranging one of the most successful meetings of this body of boards of trade in its history. No little credit is due Mayor T. A. Love and his energetic cohorts of Grand Forks for their efforts.

One definite result will repay Grand Forks and the other communities of the district. It is sure a great number of business men throughout British Columbia will appreciate what is taking place in the Interior district. Had the effort not been put forth, there doubtless would have been few visitors from distant points to learn of the progress being made. Southeastern British Columbia has been recognized in the past for its silver and lead and copper and zinc production. Now the mineral of paramount interest is gold. The story of the gradual reawakening of the district throught the development of gold mines will be passed along as the result of this convention in Grand Forks. Already partially-deserted communities are becoming repopulated. As old claims and new properties prove profitable in gold production, Southeastern British Columbia will enjoy her place in the return of prosperity. That optimism of the district for early improvement in conditions is well justified, must be the conclusion of visitors to Grand Forks last week.

Lucien Roy, Associated Screen News cameraman, of Montreal, and Ernie Roberts, of Wells Transport, were guests of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company on a most interesting aerial sightseeing tour of the district. The trip was arranged through the kindness of S. G. Blaylock for the purpose of getting newsreel pictures of the district from a bird's-eye view. Extremely interesting were impressions from above of the smelters and fertiliser plant of Trail, of the four hydro-electric plants at Bonnington Falls, which supply West Kootenay Power & Light to an area hundreds of square miles in extent. One thing certain: Pilots like Page McPhee, who was in charge of the Fairchild monoplane on this flight, know their flying. Playing tag with mountain peaks and learning to enjoy the antics of playful, turbulent air currents in those mountain valleys is a game that has to be learned.

An Irishmen opened a fish shop in a country town where fish was difficult to get, and then went away on a holiday. On his return he was horrified to find the shop closed. Searching the town for the manager he had left in charge, he found him propping the wall of a public house.

"Why have you closed down?" he inquired. "Wasn't the shop a success?"

"Indeed an' it was," replied the manger, removing his pipe from his mouth; "it was the way people tormented me for fish. I couldn't be troubled with them any more."

Higham Ferrers, England, has had no drunkenness for nine years.

CLAIMS RECORD FOR EGG-LAYING

AGASSIZ, B.C., May 25 (CP).—Barred Plymouth Rock Pullet No. 2, owned by A. Pennington, of Agassiz, has established what is believed to be a world's record at the Dominion Experimental Farm here with 200 eggs in 204 days, all the eggs being of standard weight or more.

Pullets qualify for Government registration by laying 200 eggs, each weighing two ounces of more, in 365 days. Accomplishment of this feat in only 204 days has never been equaled in an official egg-laying contest before, authorities believe.

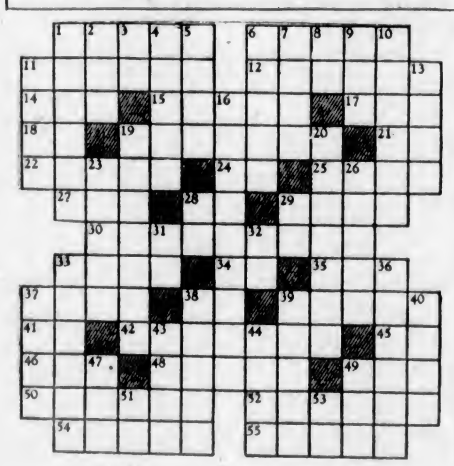

Barred Rock Pullet No. 3, owned by the Delta Land Co., Vancouver, has also laid 200 eggs in 204 days here, but all her eggs were not the full two ounces, and she has not yet qualified for registration.

Derreen 10-L, the White Leghorn pullet which equaled the world's record of 357 eggs in 365 days last year, had laid 200 eggs in 204 days during the 1933 contest, but her eggs were not all of standard weight.

The eleven provincial conferences of the United Church of Canada are holding their annual sessions during May and June. Following the British Columbia conference, which closed on Tuesday, May 22, and the Alberta conference, which opened on May 23, the remaining nine bodies will meet as follows: Saskatchewan, at Regina, May 31; Manitoba, at Winnipeg, June 4; London, at Sarnia, May 30; Hamilton, at Brantford, May 29; Toronto, at Toronto, June 6; Bay of Quinte, at Brockville, May 29; Montreal and Ottawa, at Montreal, May 31; Maritime, at Sackville, N.B., June 5; and Newfoundland, at St. John's, June 14.

Hugh Redwood, author of "God in the Slums," and other best sellers, has at his own request been relieved of his duties as deputy editor of The News Chronicle, of London, to become religious editor of the same newspaper.
